WALL STREET SHARP GAINS IN COPPERS LATE IN DAY

Operations for Advance
Meet With Marked Success
Despite Rise in Call
Money to 10 Per Cent.

FURTHER PRESSURE AGAINST THE RADIOS

Railroad Shares Are Brought Forward at One Period—of Trade—Lead and Copper Metals Up.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Operations for the advance met with marked success in the copper late in today's session of the stock market, despite a rise in the call money rate to 10 per cent, and further pressure against the Radio shares, which precipitated widespread realizing. Green Cananea, meaning seven points to a record price at 197. Anaconda and Kennecott also gained new high ground. The old Radio stock dropped 15 points to 43, and the new stock sold down to 95, closing at 94, a net loss of 4 1/2 points. Green Cananea finished 4 1/2 points net higher.

Railroad shares were brought forward by speculators for the advance at one period as the new leaders of the upward movement. The buying movement assumed broad proportions, with the copper, office appliances, equipment, farm implement and public utility shares also presenting strong outstanding points of strength at this time.

The average 10 industrial closed 5 of a point lower, 20 rails 5 of a point higher and 20 utilities 7 of a point higher. Sales today were 4,449,000 shares.

High money rates continued to hamper bullish operations. Call loans renewed at 8 per cent as against 7 yesterday, and rose to 10 per cent late afternoon. Wall street bears talk of 12 per cent call money before the end of the week. Little time money was available below 8 per cent. Wall street expects no change in the discount rate this week, apparently basing its opinion on the statement of Gov. Young last week that a rise in rates would be "the last resort" in the board's effort to curb the excessive use of credit for speculation.

Bring Rails Forward.
Trade and business news continued to have a bullish tinge. Lead prices were advanced $5 a ton, another series of favorable 1928 earnings statements were published, and the American Surety company started dividends at $6 annually on the new stock, which is equivalent to $12 on the old which paid $10.

Rails have been lagging behind the general list for the past two months. Wall Street believed that market sponsors of those issues were waiting for the St. Louis & O'Fallon decision, indirectly involving billions in railroad valuations, or an outline of President Hoover's railroad consolidation policy. Meanwhile, current railroad earnings and traffic statements were extremely favorable. Bringing forward the rails as leaders today was regarded as a strategic move by traders who have had some difficulty in attracting a following in other issues.

Canadian Pacific was quickly marked up 4 1/2 points, New York Central 3 and Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie and Western Maryland moved up 2 to 3 1/2 points, closing at advance of 3 1/2 to 1 1/2 points net. Canadian Pacific closed 2 1/2 points net higher and New York Central 1 1/2.

Radio issues, which ran into heavy selling at the opening following yesterday's drastic decline, rebounded with the rest of the market in the early afternoon. The heavy recovery moved most of the early 1-point decline, then turned down again.

Cash Thrashing Machine soared 15 points, Baldwin Locomotive 13 to a new high at 263 1/2 and International Business Machines, National Cash Register, Lambert, Ohio Elevator, National Lead, International Telephone, American Steel, American Metals and American Foundries all sold 4 to 5 points net higher. Case closed 15 points net higher and Baldwin 7 1/2.

Closing stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on pages 35, 36 and 37.

COOLIDGE TO BUY AUTO HE USED AT WHITE HOUSE

Limousine Will Be Taken to Northampton for Ex-President's Inspection.

By the Associated Press.
NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 19.—Calvin Coolidge has decided to purchase an automobile, the limousine he used the last year of his Presidency. This was learned today when the former President met newspapermen in his law office here.

The Government furnishes the Chief Executive a new automobile each year, disposing of the old one. The one used by Mr. Coolidge during his last year in the White House is to be brought here for his inspection. Neither he nor Mrs. Coolidge will drive the machine, however.

Although the former President continues to adhere to his stipulation that interviewers refrain from quoting him, it can be stated that his retirement from public life has not brought with it entire freedom from public demands. He continues to receive more mail than he can answer. Two stenographers have been engaged to attend to his correspondence, a large part of which requires personal replies. Mrs. Coolidge also receives a large amount of mail each day.

FISHING STREAMS LEASED BY HOOVER

President Arranges for Angling Trips in Two States Close to Capital.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Fishing holes for President Hoover in both nearby Maryland and Virginia have been acquired through his secretary, Laurence Richey, so that during the summer week-ends and dull days in the White House, the Chief Executive may be able to angle for trout.

The fishing waters in Virginia are at the source of the Rapidan River in Shenandoah County in the National Park area. The lease covers 18 miles of the stream which meanders between two mountain ranges in a thickly wooded valley varying in width from several hundred yards to three quarters of a mile. A lodge will be built on the site and $14,000 spent to construct a nine-mile road connecting the fishing grounds with the Madison County courthouse.

The Virginia stream is within three hours from Washington by automobile and will probably be visited on week-end trips. The Maryland ground is 12 miles from Frederick and probably will be used on afternoons during the summers. This property, known as Cacocott Furnace, and which once formed a part of the estate of the first Governor of Maryland, was bought outright by Richey. It was bought by Lancelot Jacques Sr. of Hagerstown.

Besides acquiring 1500 acres for purchase, Richey obtained an eight-year lease on several miles of the stream beyond the estate, giving a fishing range of more than 10 miles.

President Hoover has not abandoned the idea of establishing a retreat at Mount Weather, Va. He will have no summer white house this year, as Congress will be in session during most of the hot months and after it adjourns Mr. Hoover may make his projected trip to the West Indies and possibly Mexico.

No plans have been made for a summer white house next year, but the possibility is that the President will spend part of the vacation period at his home at Stanford University, California, thus giving the Pacific Coast a summer white house for the first time in history.

Congress appropriated $48,000 to condition the property at Mount Weather, but stipulated that the President should decide whether the money should be spent.

OFFICIAL GETS FEES FOR COACHING MEN FOR CITY'S EXAMS

GORDON GUARANTEES

Training for Less.

Robert B. Gordon, City Commissioner of Smoke Regulation, conducts an engineering school at his home, 4617 Ashland avenue, patronized by men who have applied or expect to apply to the City Board of Engineers for stationary engineers' licenses. The course of instruction at Gordon's school, according to affidavits made public by a former representative of an engineering organization, consists of presenting the student a typewritten list of questions and answers. A subsequent oral examination given by the City Board of Engineers consists almost entirely of questions set forth in Gordon's list.

The Board of Engineers is comprised of Chief Boiler and Elevator Inspector George L. Reno, as chairman, appointed by Director of Public Safety Brod, and two other members, Frank Altman and John J. Kellogg, appointed by the Board of Public Safety. Reno is a member of the Republican City Central Committee.

Urged to Attend School.
Ralph J. Finley, 4444 A Ave. avenue, made affidavit that several months after he applied for a stationary engineer's license he was approached by Deputy Smoke Commissioner T. T. Hamilton, one of Gordon's subordinates, who suggested enrolling in Gordon's school.

"I filed my first application with the Board of Engineers in 1927," Finley related, "and paid a filing fee of $5. I heard nothing from the board about the application until the middle of December, 1927. I went to find out about it and a clerk told me that it was on file and O. K."

"I took the examination that day. Kellogg asked me about four questions. He said to me: 'You will have to come back and you should get some instruction from some good teacher.'"

"I told him that I had been going to Beaumont High School two nights a week and receiving instructions in power plant operation from J. S. Foreman," he said. "Foreman is a good technical man, but not practical." Mr. Reno told me, when I got ready, to file my application again.

Goes to Gordon's Home.
"On Feb. 1, 1928, Mr. Hamilton, Deputy Smoke Commissioner, came to see me and said he would make an appointment for me with Robert B. Gordon, Commissioner of Smoke Regulation. The appointment was made for Feb. 3, at Mr. Gordon's home, 4617 Ashland avenue. I went to his home on this night."

"Gordon asked me if I had had two years' experience as a stationary fireman. I told him 'Yes.' He asked me if I had run any kind of pumps. I told him 'Yes.' He asked me if I had ever had charge of a plant. I told him 'Yes.' He asked me some engineering questions on these subjects."

"He said: 'It's pretty hard to get by the board unless you have the required information. If you want to take my instructions so you can pass, my fee will be $200. I will stay with you until you pass. It is not much use for you to try unless you have the required information, and if you think a license is worth that to you, I am ready to go ahead.' At that time I didn't tell him whether I would do it or not."

Pays $75 Down on Course.
"The next day I went to see him on Feb. 24, and told him I didn't have $200, but that I would give him $75 in cash and monthly notes for the balance. He accepted this proposition. I gave him the $75 and he gave me a receipt and a typewritten instruction on how to put an engine on center, and told me to go down and file my application and come back March 5."

FEDERAL CONVICT FREED ON FORGED ORDER OF COURT

Investigation Discloses Circumstances of Release
From Leavenworth of Hayes Van Gorder.

PURPORTED TO REVERSE SENTENCES

Previous Effort to Get Away Through Fake Pardon Failed When He Winked at Prisoner.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LEAVENWORTH, Kan., March 19.—Hayes Van Gorder, whose ingenuity in getting out of prison is almost equal to his faculty for getting back in, obtained his release from the penitentiary three weeks ago on a forged order of the Circuit Court of Appeals, an investigation by District Attorney Skinner and postoffice inspectors disclosed here today.

It was Van Gorder's second attempt to gain his freedom through forgery. Several years ago he forged the order of the Attorney General of the United States to a false pardon. Had he not stopped at the prison gate to "give the wink" to another prisoner, he would have been freed. His escort became suspicious, wired to Washington for confirmation of the pardon and was told none had been issued.

District Attorney Harold Baker at East St. Louis, Ill., along with the present investigation. He read in a St. Louis newspaper about a week ago that Van Gorder had been arrested for raising money for the release of prisoners. Van Gorder was serving a 15-year sentence imposed at Danville, Ill., in September, 1927.

Baker complained to the Attorney General in Washington that he had received no notification of Van Gorder's release, or his application for one. The investigation followed. Van Gorder is now in custody in Kansas.

Former Postal Clerk.
Van Gorder, a former postal clerk in Poplar Bluff, Mo., has a long criminal record and has served terms in Illinois and Iowa State penitentiaries as well as at Leavenworth.

The order on which he obtained his freedom purported to be from the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals and reversed sentences from Iowa and Kansas, as well as the Illinois sentence. Van Gorder had already served the Iowa term and had started on the Illinois sentence, with the prospect of the Kansas sentence ahead when he finished.

Clever as a forger, Van Gorder also showed exceptional legal talent. Without previous training, he enrolled in the law course given the prisoners at night, specializing in "extraordinary remedies," which dealt with writs of habeas corpus and other procedures used in obtaining the release of prison inmates.

Arrived with this legal knowledge, Van Gorder, while serving his Iowa term for raising money, insisted on being brought to trial in Illinois on similar charges and when the authorities threatened mandamus proceedings.

Dickered With Prosecutor.
He eventually had his way and was taken to Danville, where he dickered with District Attorney Baker and agreed to plead guilty to six charges, while six others were dismissed.

In 1926, he appealed from a decision of Federal Judge Paris and had the decision reversed by the Court of Appeals, filing his own brief and going before the Court under guard to argue the merits of his contentions.

The case involved the alleged theft of keys from the Poplar Bluff postoffice. Van Gorder's contention that the mere showing of possession of the keys did not justify the assumption that he had stolen them was upheld by the appellate court.

At the penitentiary, Van Gorder is known as "the waiting forger" for his ability to give way to tears when he thinks the occasion calls for them. During his administration of Warden Hiddle, Van Gorder requested a job as trusty, stating fearfully that he was "dying for fresh air" because it was his first term in a penitentiary.

PRESIDENT NOT PLANNING DRASTIC DRY CAMPAIGN

Hopes to Build Up Enforcement of Law Generally by Tightening Up Federal Organization.

HIS PURPOSE IS TO REDUCE CRIME

Washington Police Begin Effort to Make Capital Dryest City in the United States.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 19.—President Hoover has no idea of any drastic prohibition campaign as a means of bringing about the general law enforcement for which he declared in his inaugural address.

The purpose of the chief executive is to build up the enforcement of the law generally by tightening up the Federal organization and the reorganization of the Federal judicial system.

Mr. Hoover is undertaking to reduce crime in the United States and in doing so he expects the support of the press and every good citizen of the country.

No new orders have gone out for raids, but there are indications the steps are to be taken to cut off as much as possible the industrial supply of alcohol from the illegal trade. There also has been talk in Washington that the President had passed the word along the line that the national capital must be made the driest city in the country, and that drinking by public officials would not be tolerated.

Move to Dry Up Capital.
A move to make the capital one of the driest cities in the United States was started today by Washington officials. Orders were issued by Superintendent Hesse for a thorough canvass of all places suspected of selling liquor with padding of every speakeasy the objection.

Dry leaders of Washington some time ago sought a thorough mopping up of liquor cases in the city, urging that the nation's capital should set an example to every other city.

The President is moving with caution in the "difficult task of picking those who are to compose his law enforcement commission and reversed sentences from Iowa and Kansas, as well as the Illinois sentence. Van Gorder had already served the Iowa term and had started on the Illinois sentence, with the prospect of the Kansas sentence ahead when he finished.

Lawyers Likely to Predominate.
Because of the very nature of the work, it is probable that the President's law enforcement commission is expected to be composed largely if not entirely of lawyers. Mr. Hoover wants to select only men who have had broad experience in studying the general subject of enforcement.

While professional leaders of the drys and wets will be barred, it may be that the personal views of the individuals will enter very little into the considerations for or against their appointment.

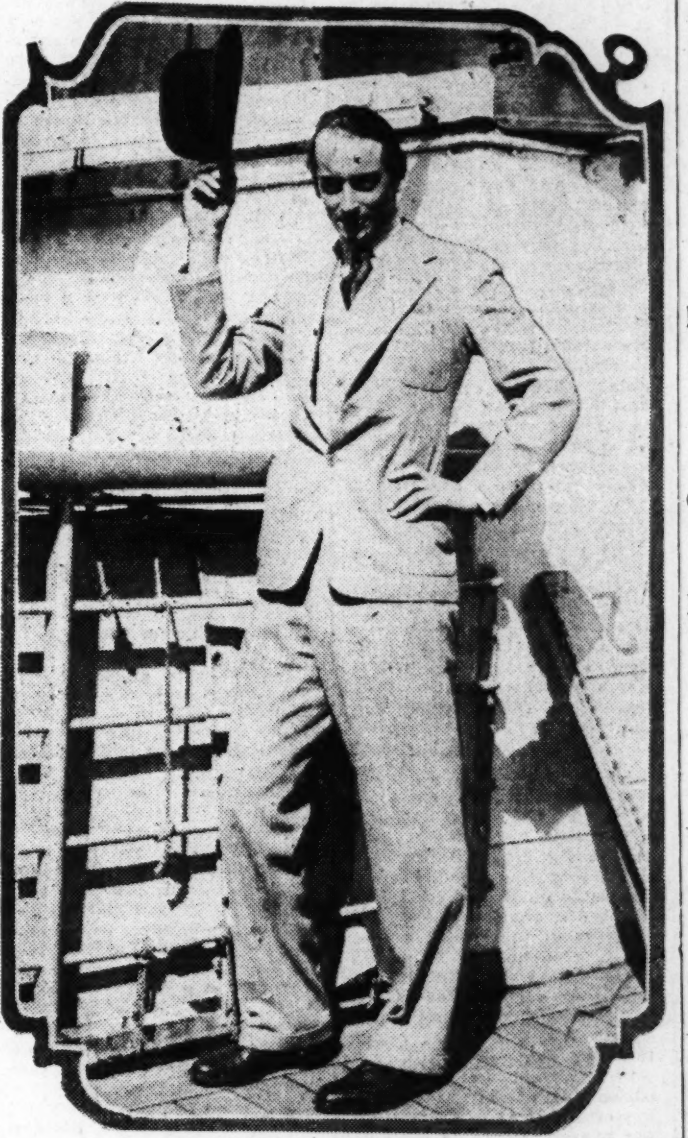

Suggestions have come of late from several quarters that Elihu Root, former Secretary of State, whose plan for United States adherence to the World Court was accepted yesterday by a League of Nations Committee, be named chairman of the commission. The name of Charles Evans Hughes also has been suggested in this connection, but he is one of the jurists of the World Court and so would hardly be available for the appointment.

AMERICAN MINER KIDNAPED Reported Seized For Ransom by Mexican Bandits.

MEXICO CITY, March 12.—Private advices received here today and transmitted to the American embassy, said that an American mining man named T. L. Carnahan had been kidnaped by bandits last night at La Noria mine, in the State of Zacatecas. He was presumably held for ransom.

Carnahan's headquarters were said to be in El Paso. He has a brother, George Carnahan, of the Continental Rubber Co., in New York City.

GIRL BURNED TO DEATH AT CUBAN SOCIETY CARNIVAL Costumes Catch Fire From Torch Causing Tragedy; Festivity Ended.

By the Associated Press.
HAVANA, March 19.—The newspaper Excelsior-Pais tells of a fire which plunged a carnival at Sagua La Grande from the height of festivity into the deepest gloom. Helen Morales, with 16 of her society girl friends, appeared at the fashionable Eden Club brilliantly plumed to represent an enormous rooster.

The applauding crowds jostled against one of the two girl torch bearers who formed part of the group. The torch made contact with the flimsy materials and the girls were quickly in flames. Men beat out the flames as quickly as possible, but Miss Morales died of burns several hours later and none of the group escaped suffering. The seasonal carnival was immediately closed.

A patrol of Marines engaged a minor group of outlaws on March 14 about 20 miles northwest of Limay, killing one.

The following day in the same vicinity a combined patrol of Marines and Nicaraguan volunteers killed four outlaws and captured three. Arms and ammunition were seized in both clashes.

MEXICO CITY, March 19.—Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, commander-in-chief of the rebel army, Gov. Caraveo of Chihuahua and other rebel leaders of the north have sued for peace through the Mexican Consul at El Paso, Enrique Liekens. It was announced by the Government last night.

(Liekens says he was told by telephone by President Portes Gil that the rebels had begun peace negotiations through the consul at Chihuahua City.)

President Portes Gil declared that the Government would make no truce with the rebels. He said he had rejected the offer of conditional surrender made by Gen. Caraveo, rebel commander of Chihuahua.

"And I'll make no terms with rebels anywhere," he added. "All surrenders must be unconditional. There will be no truce with traitors to their country."

(Gen. Escobar with his army at Escalon refused to confirm or deny reports that he had sought a peace parley.)

Rebel Governor Denies Making Plea for Peace.
By the Associated Press.
JUAREZ, Chihuahua, March 19.—Reports of a proposal for peace negotiations by the revolutionary army were emphatically denied by Gen. Marcelo Caraveo, Governor of Chihuahua, in a message today to Gen. Marcelino M. Murrieta, commander of the insurgent forces at Juarez. The statement was occasioned by the announcement by Enrique Liekens, Mexican Consul General in El Paso, that President Portes Gil had informed him by telephone that Gen. Caraveo had sought to start negotiations for peace through the American Consul in Chihuahua City. In his message to Gen. Murrieta the Governor said: "I have not entered and will not enter into negotiations with the Calles Government."

Escobar Enunciates Principles of Humane Warfare.
By the Associated Press.
JUAREZ, March 19.—Battles in the war for control of the Mexican republic should be fought outside of cities so that lives of non-combatants will not be endangered, Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, revolutionary commander-in-chief, declared in a telegram addressed to the Associated Press today.

"I would prefer the strategic position of mountain warfare," said Gen. Escobar. "Therefore, temporarily, I am abandoning the city of Torreon because I know that if I remained there I would expose the city and women and children to death, incalculable and vengeance. Meanwhile I will allow Calles to deceive himself by thinking that he has captured the city while we follow this campaign to its definite conclusion."

Indignation was expressed by the insurgent leader over the bombing of Torreon by Federal airplanes.

"My feeling is of such profound indignation that I cannot express myself in my crude soldier's language," he said. "I cannot find words bad enough to describe my feelings against those who carried out deliberately and cowardly the order of Calles in bombing the people of Torreon, making victims of men, women and children and violating the rules of civilized warfare."

40 NATIONS TO VOTE ON CHANGE IN WORLD COURT

Unanimous Consent of All Needed to Accept U. S. Under Root Protocol Adopted by Jurists.

SENATE RATIFICATION ALSO IS NECESSARY

Latin America Expected to Oppose Privileged Position Proposed for This Country in Tribunal.

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, March 19.—The United States is only two steps from adherence to the World Court, but League of Nations observers foresee a distinct possibility that at least one of those steps might never be taken.

The two steps involve ratification of the protocol agreed upon yesterday by the Commission of International Jurists—ratification by the American Senate on the one hand and by the 40 nations which comprise the League of Nations on the other.

Little opposition to the protocol is expected in the American Senate since it is supposed that Elihu Root, its author, conferred with the jurists here with the sanction of President Hoover and Republican leaders.

Approval by member nations of the League, however, presents quite a different matter. A single nation's disagreement with the terms of the protocol will be sufficient to prevent American adherence to the Court under its terms. It is regarded possible that one state, or even more, may oppose the conditions of the convention as according too privileged a position to the United States.

Latin American Attitude. Such disagreement which is feared particularly from Latin American League members, probably would have the effect of forcing an international conference, at which a further discussion of the matter would be in order.

The procedure of ratification by the League members is described as follows:

The Council of the League, when it meets at Madrid in June, will receive a report on the activities of the Council of Jurists—which, specifically, has met to consider revision of the World Court statute from Sir Cecil Hurst, who aided Root in drafting the protocol.

The text of the protocol will be sent to all members of the Court, that is to members of the League of Nations. If no objection is forthcoming it will then be signed by all states at the September assembly of the League at Geneva.

The protocol, which provides for the United States an opportunity to discuss any American objections to a proposed advisory opinion with the League Council before the Council votes, this provision is a measure insuring the semblance of American participation in League Council discussions affecting the United States even though it is a non-member.

Right to Withdraw. If the United States prefers to have an exchange of views after the request has reached the Court of the League, it can make place then and the Court must stay all proceedings pending the result of negotiations.

The United States has the right to assign from the Court, if it feels it cannot abandon its objections to any request for an advisory opinion on a question possessing an interest for the United States. If the United States resigns, the protocol accepting American conditions immediately ceases to have any force.

The position of other members of the Court, however, is far from being so privileged. If at any time after their acceptance of the protocol, two-thirds of the Court members denounce the document, the protocol dies automatically after having once become effective.

Such a contingency would not drive the United States from the Court but would allow it to stay only as a regular member without any privileged position.

Question of British Dominions. Whether the British Dominions have the right to a Judge on the bench of the World Court when that body is considering questions involving their interests, cropped up unexpectedly today. It finally was agreed that the problem was outside the scope of the commission's mandate.

Sir Cecil Hurst, the British delegate, initiated the discussion by voicing his understanding that the commission already had adopted the view that even if a British Judge were on the bench, the Dominions would have the right of representation if the court should be considering a question concerning them directly.

Sir Cecil said that he was surprised to learn that Nicholas Politis of Greece held a contrary view and that Politis felt the commission had not at all accepted the British thesis. Nevertheless, Sir Cecil said, it was his opinion that the status of the court, the covenant of the League and the Constitution of the British Empire all supported the Dominions' right to sit on the bench.

The Greek jurist declared that

Provisions of Protocol to Make U. S. Member of World Court

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, March 19.—The question of advisory opinions, one of the chief stumbling blocks to the United States membership in the World Court, was handled in Article Five of the protocol agreed upon by the jurists here yesterday. It reads:

"With a view to insuring that the court shall not, without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest, the Secretary-General of the League of Nations shall, through any channel designated for that purpose by the United States, inform the United States of any proposal before the Council or the Assembly of the League for obtaining an advisory opinion from the Court and thereupon, if desired, an exchange of views as to whether an interest of the United States is affected shall proceed with all consent speed between the Council or Assembly of the League and the United States."

"Whenever request for an advisory opinion comes to the Court the request shall be referred to the United States thereof, among other states mentioned in the now existing article 73 of the rules of the Court, stating a reasonable time limit fixed by the President within which a written statement by the United States concerning the request will be received."

Exchange of Views. "If for any reason no sufficient opportunity for exchange of views upon such request should have been afforded and the United States advises the Council that the question upon which the opinion of the Court is asked is one that affects the interests of the United States, the proceeding shall be stayed for a period sufficient to enable such exchange of views between the Council or the Assembly and the United States to take place."

"With regard to requesting an advisory opinion of the Court in any case covered by the preceding paragraphs, there shall be attributed to an objection of the United States the same force and effect as attaches to a vote against asking for an opinion given by a member of the League of Nations in the Council or in the Assembly."

"If, after the exchange of views provided for in paragraph one and two of this article, it acceptance of Sir Cecil's thesis would be opposed by many small states and that some of them might deem it reasonable for not acceding to the compulsory arbitration clause of the World Court.

Henri Fromageot, French jurist, expressed the opinion that it would be a great mistake either to adopt Sir Cecil's views or reject them completely. He felt that the question was not within the purview of the commission.

Throughout the discussion Elihu Root, the United States delegate, remained silent, but when all was over he said:

"Mr. Chairman, I just want to say this: The United States has recognized the separate international personality of the British Dominions by receiving from and accrediting to the Irish Free State and Canada Minister plenipotentiaries."

The World Court was created in 1920 by what was called the protocol of signature of the statute. Its real name is "the Permanent Court of International Justice." It meets at The Hague and considers questions of international jurisdiction. In 1926 a special protocol treating on American reservations to the Court statute was drawn up, but the United States found it unsatisfactory. Yesterday's agreement was designed to replace the unsuccessful one of 1926.

German Paper Says Privilege to U. S. May Endanger League. By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 19.—Some of the German papers are just now beginning to question the advisability of the United States having the special privileges implied in the World Court protocol. These papers feel the situation presents a dangerous precedent which might shake the entire structure of international justice.

The Social Democratic Vorwarts declared that under the Root plan it would be impossible for the World Court to consider the appeal of any Latin American country against the United States without "first knocking at Washington's door and asking permission," adding that the United States Government would then feel free to exact its veto power.

"That constitutes a position of special privilege, irreconcilable with the idea of international justice," the paper says. "As always, the United States depends upon the Monroe Doctrine to cloak themselves this extra sausage." The Monroe Doctrine is then termed a "very comfortable" American foreign policy with which to avoid international obligations and to assert special rights of the League of Nations, the Kellogg pact and now The Hague Court.

St. Mary's Committee to Meet. St. Mary's Committee of the Catholic Women's League will meet tomorrow morning at 9:45 o'clock at St. Mary's Dispensary, 1509 Chouteau avenue. The organization distributes surgical supplies and medical relief.

Provisions of Protocol to Make U. S. Member of World Court

shall appear that no agreement can be reached and the United States is not prepared to forego its objection, the exercise of powers of withdrawal provided for in article eight hereof will follow naturally without any imputation of unfriendliness or unwillingness to co-operate generally for peace and good will."

Article One of the protocol distinctly states that the signatories of the protocol of 1920 which created the Court accept special conditions attached by the United States in the five reservations to its adherence protocol upon the terms and conditions set out in the following articles:

U. S. on Equal Basis. Article Two says the United States shall be added to participate in the election of judges of the World Court on a basis of equality with other nations at the Council and Assembly. It is practically the same text as Article One in the protocol of 1926, which the United States never accepted.

Article Three provides that no amendments shall be made to the protocol of all states and Article Four says the Court shall give advisory opinions in public session after notice and opportunity for hearing.

Article Five declares the provisions of the protocol shall have the same force and effect as the statutes of the Court itself.

Article Seven stipulates that the present protocol shall come into force as soon as all states which ratified the creative protocol of 1920 and also the United States have deposited their ratifications with the League of Nations.

Privilege Granted U. S. Article Eight declares that the United States may at any time request the Secretary-General of the League that it withdraw its adherence to the protocol of 1920 and the present protocol of adherence by the United States shall cease to be in force. Any one of the other states may on their part announce withdrawal of their acceptance of the American conditions.

Article Nine stipulates that the present protocol shall be considered as ceasing to be in force if and when within one year from the date of receipt of said notification not less than two-thirds of the contracting states shall have notified the Secretary-General of the League that they decided to withdraw the above mentioned acceptance."

Follows the important phrase, "the present protocol shall be considered as ceasing to be in force if and when within one year from the date of receipt of said notification not less than two-thirds of the contracting states shall have notified the Secretary-General of the League that they decided to withdraw the above mentioned acceptance."

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, March 19.—The United States is only two steps from adherence to the World Court, but League of Nations observers foresee a distinct possibility that at least one of those steps might never be taken.

The two steps involve ratification of the protocol agreed upon yesterday by the Commission of International Jurists—ratification by the American Senate on the one hand and by the 40 nations which comprise the League of Nations on the other.

Little opposition to the protocol is expected in the American Senate since it is supposed that Elihu Root, its author, conferred with the jurists here with the sanction of President Hoover and Republican leaders.

Approval by member nations of the League, however, presents quite a different matter. A single nation's disagreement with the terms of the protocol will be sufficient to prevent American adherence to the Court under its terms. It is regarded possible that one state, or even more, may oppose the conditions of the convention as according too privileged a position to the United States.

Latin American Attitude. Such disagreement which is feared particularly from Latin American League members, probably would have the effect of forcing an international conference, at which a further discussion of the matter would be in order.

The procedure of ratification by the League members is described as follows:

The Council of the League, when it meets at Madrid in June, will receive a report on the activities of the Council of Jurists—which, specifically, has met to consider revision of the World Court statute from Sir Cecil Hurst, who aided Root in drafting the protocol.

The text of the protocol will be sent to all members of the Court, that is to members of the League of Nations. If no objection is forthcoming it will then be signed by all states at the September assembly of the League at Geneva.

The protocol, which provides for the United States an opportunity to discuss any American objections to a proposed advisory opinion with the League Council before the Council votes, this provision is a measure insuring the semblance of American participation in League Council discussions affecting the United States even though it is a non-member.

Right to Withdraw. If the United States prefers to have an exchange of views after the request has reached the Court of the League, it can make place then and the Court must stay all proceedings pending the result of negotiations.

The United States has the right to assign from the Court, if it feels it cannot abandon its objections to any request for an advisory opinion on a question possessing an interest for the United States. If the United States resigns, the protocol accepting American conditions immediately ceases to have any force.

The position of other members of the Court, however, is far from being so privileged. If at any time after their acceptance of the protocol, two-thirds of the Court members denounce the document, the protocol dies automatically after having once become effective.

Such a contingency would not drive the United States from the Court but would allow it to stay only as a regular member without any privileged position.

Question of British Dominions. Whether the British Dominions have the right to a Judge on the bench of the World Court when that body is considering questions involving their interests, cropped up unexpectedly today. It finally was agreed that the problem was outside the scope of the commission's mandate.

Sir Cecil Hurst, the British delegate, initiated the discussion by voicing his understanding that the commission already had adopted the view that even if a British Judge were on the bench, the Dominions would have the right of representation if the court should be considering a question concerning them directly.

Sir Cecil said that he was surprised to learn that Nicholas Politis of Greece held a contrary view and that Politis felt the commission had not at all accepted the British thesis. Nevertheless, Sir Cecil said, it was his opinion that the status of the court, the covenant of the League and the Constitution of the British Empire all supported the Dominions' right to sit on the bench.

PRECAUTION TAKEN AGAINST DISEASES IN FLOODED AREA

Movement for Special Session of Alabama Legislature to Appropriate Relief Fund Started.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 19.—The fight against possible epidemics in the South's flooded area and the collection of funds for general use in relieving flood sufferers, occupied Southern states today.

Last night in Alabama a movement was started for a special session of the Legislature to appropriate funds for rehabilitation.

This morning Mobile had collected $37,000 of a proposed $78,000 fund; Montgomery $26,000, and the Atlanta City Council $5000. Two news, papers and a radio station at Tampa are also taking up a collection. In every instance the Red Cross has charge of the campaign of relief funds.

Antitoxins have begun to arrive. William Dekline, national medical director for the Red Cross, is in active charge of distribution and use of preventives. He is directing all sanitary measures in relief camps.

The Salvation Army has issued an appeal for clothing for flood refugees.

Throughout the flooded area, with the exception of the territory along the Alabama River and rivers of Northwest Florida, the water was receding today. At River Junction, Fla., where the Flint and Chattahoochee rivers join, the water was receding today.

The Apalachicola, water flooded the barge section and residents have taken to high ground. Coast Guard vessels cared for needs of flood sufferers along the Choctawhatchee River, while the naval air station at Pensacola performed like service to other districts.

The death list remains at 20. Flood Along Alabama River Worse Than Week Ago.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 19.—The Alabama River, spreading out until it is 10 miles wide in places, has inundated an area estimated to be several times as large as that flooded last week by the Pea River and its tributaries.

First news of the new dangerous situation in four Alabama counties was brought here yesterday by aviators, while plans for rehabilitation of the flood-stricken towns and communities in the Pea River region were being put into execution.

Maj. W. R. Weaver, commandant of Maxwell Field, army aviation base, reported to Gov. Bibb Graves that "people were winging to trees" in the newly flooded area, and the Governor himself flew over the section, remaining in the air three hours. Besides the plane in which the Governor rode, Maj. Weaver and two other officials rode, several scout planes were sent out. Lieut. John F. Gill, pilot of one of them, estimated the flooded area to be 10 times the size of the Geneva-Elba district.

Lieut. Gill said the river is 10 miles wide at Primrose, Wilcox County. Primrose is about 40 miles southwest of Selma. It is in a horseshoe formed by the river.

Adjutant-General F. E. Butler, director of relief work at headquarters here, said the situation at Brewton, Flomaton, Carland, Keokee, Polkton, and other communities in the Alabama-Tombigbee Basin was well in hand. Army flyers dropped a 24-hour food supply to Brewton and nearby towns yesterday, but reported that much of the town was still under water.

Radio operator Mason was at Point Barrow, Alaska, before the season of the successful flight across the North Pole to Spitzbergen. It was said that the KDKA broadcast afforded to Mason the first opportunity of hearing Wilkins' voice since they parted in Alaska.

"We are hearing more signals here than I ever thought existed before. Here comes Pete (Peterson, the radio operator), who has been flying kites for MP (Malcolm P. Hanson), Mason."

Mason was experimenting with kites to carry wires into the air for use as emergency radio antennas. Station operators disclosed that much radio experimental work is being carried on at the main base camp by the expedition's engineers. The radio apparatus is installed in a corner of the mess hall.

MEXICO CITY, March 19.—Gen. Calles promised President Portes Gil today a campaign of "extermination" against the rebel army of the rebel General, Jose Gonzalo Escobar.

The message of Gen. Calles, now Commander-in-Chief of the Federal army, said he was "commencing immediately organization of the column which will march on Chihuahua to fight and exterminate the traitors."

The promise was contained in a message from Guadalupe Victoria, Durango. It said that temporary headquarters had been established here but that the Federal generalissimo was leaving shortly either by automobile or airplane for Torreon.

The message stated occupation of Torreon was complete and that aviators had told him the rebel army had stopped its retreat at Escalon, in the southeastern corner of Chihuahua, 64 miles from Torreon. Five troop trains were on sidings there.

The message of Gen. Calles, following as it did reports of another bloodless victory at Torreon yesterday, caused jubilation in Mexico City.

No considerable opposition to the advance of Gen. Calles into Chihuahua is expected now by the Government. Escalon is not regarded here as particularly suited to defense. Retreat from Torreon, which a greatly inferior army might have held indefinitely, was taken by the Government as implying complete rout, and rapid disintegration of the rebel forces is forecast.

Sir George Paish Startles Householders in Discussion of Trade Restriction.

By the Associated Press.

MANCHESTER, England, March 19.—The gravest financial crisis the world's history has known, according to Sir George Paish, well known economist, Sir George Paish, who is auditing at the national free trade conference here with his production.

"I speak with the highest authority, and I challenge anyone to deny it, when I say we are threatened with the greatest financial crisis the world has ever seen because the governments of the world have followed the policy of trade restriction, preventing debtors from paying their debts," Sir George declared.

"We are faced to face with this crisis. The greatest authorities in this country and in the United States expect it to come this year, and unless this policy of safeguarding or protection is checked, it means disaster to the world."

"I am not exaggerating," Sir George concluded. "I wish I were a blamed politician who had pursued wrong policies since the war for the impending crisis."

GERMANY RENOUNCES USE OF POISON GAS IN WAR Reichstag Foreign Affairs Committee Adopted Pledge on the Geneva Protocol.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 19.—Poison gas as a weapon in warfare was formally disapproved by Germany today. The Foreign Affairs Committee of the Reichstag adopted a bill on the Geneva protocol prohibiting the use of poison gas in war.

Under-Secretary von Schuler, Von Schuler added, that without the use of poison gas in war, the protocol was the best means of dispelling any fears that Germany had anything to hide respecting her development of chemical warfare.

The German Government attached great importance to ratification of the bill prior to the preliminary disarmament conference, Von Schuler added. By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 19.—Poison gas as a weapon in warfare was formally disapproved by Germany today. The Foreign Affairs Committee of the Reichstag adopted a bill on the Geneva protocol prohibiting the use of poison gas in war.

Under-Secretary von Schubert, recalling that the protocol had been signed by 35 Powers and already ratified by eight, pointed out that the protocol was the best means of dispelling any fears that Germany had anything to hide respecting her development of chemical warfare.

The German Government attached greatest importance to ratification of the bill prior to the preliminary disarmament conference.

Von Schubert added, "But ratification would not prevent further discussion of means of protection against gas, as well as air attacks."

The hearing was held in the Stratton D. Brooks' office beginning at 2 p. m.

The four students involved are: Harold Williams, of Columbia; Clarence Ferguson of New Lenox, Ill.; Albert Davis, Columbia; and G. H. Meyer of Unionville. The five faculty members called are: Dr. H. O. de Gasse, Prof. Max Meyer, Prof. Jesse Wrench, Dr. Howard Jensen, and Russell Baader, instructor in economics.

Dr. Brooks, in referring to the powers of the executive board expressed belief that it has full power to take any action deemed necessary. Its limits are contained in the constitutional clause referring to the full board, which declares that "the board of curators shall govern the university."

Dr. Brooks, in referring to the powers of the executive board expressed belief that it has full power to take any action deemed necessary. Its limits are contained in the constitutional clause referring to the full board, which declares that "the board of curators shall govern the university."

He added, however, that he hoped the three men on the board would avoid hasty decisions, as he believed their decision would affect fundamental problems of a far-reaching nature.

"The question to be decided is one of policy rather than fact," Dr. Brooks said. "It is not advisable as the future of the university may be definitely affected. The board may of course decide to call a meeting of the whole board, which would require a special session of the board of curators, but the public is ready for action now."

Student feeling evidenced itself on the subject today when three separate petitions, containing more than 1200 signatures and expressing support of those concerned in the sex questionnaire distribution, were presented to Dr. Brooks by student groups. One of the petitions was 15 feet long and bore 700 names.

Legislature Defers Action Pending Outcome of Curators' Meeting.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—The members of the House of Representatives University Committee decided last night to take no action in connection with the sex questionnaire circulated at the University of Missouri until after a meeting of the University Board of Curators and President Brooks today.

The committee was called to consider a resolution by Representative Clowe of Stoddard County, naming those who circulated the questionnaire.

The committee held a short executive session and heard Clowe speak in behalf of his resolution. Representative Rollins of Boone County, in which the university is located, defended the university and asked that no action be taken until after the meeting of the curators.

One of the committee members laid the blame for the question on Judge Ben Lindsay of Denver, who, he said, started the youth of the nation to thinking of companionate marriage and sex questions.

Representative Freeland of Taney County, Republican floor leader in the Missouri House of Representatives, said today that the sex questionnaire circulated at the university "would break down and destroy the moral and spiritual idealism and purpose of the people."

Freeland, publisher of the Taney County Republican, read from the floor of the House an editorial which he said would appear in his newspaper this week.

"The questionnaire strikes at the very basic and fundamental principle of human society," he said. "The tendency is to drag men and women to the license of the jungle."

Representative Kirk Jones, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said a newspaper announced him as saying that the university would be "a disgrace to the state" if the questionnaire at the university was not dismissed. Jones said he would not be so hasty in his opinion.

He said the questionnaire matter was "a matter of the state" and that he might possibly have some bearing on the situation of some members of the Appropriations Committee.

OSLO, Norway, March 19.—Thousands of Norwegians gave their Crown Prince and his bride-to-be, Princess Martha of Sweden, a rousing welcome when they arrived here from Sweden this morning.

Prince Olaf, who had left his fiancée at the Swedish border last night and hurried to Oslo, arrived first, Princess Martha following in a special train with her entourage an hour later.

A red carpet had been laid over the railway station platform and the Princess stepped from her car on to it, where the Prince and his father and mother, King Haakon VII. and Queen Wanda of Norway, awaited her.

The Princess beamed as she was introduced to the members of the reception committee, which included Prime Minister Mowinkel, other members of the Government and high military and naval officials.

The Princess and her party entered carriages and left the station to the accompaniment of cheering and flag waving. The procession had a triumphal progress as the royal party, preceded by a cavalry escort, wended its way through the gaily decorated streets. The populace lined the sidewalks and their cheering was one continuous roar. The young pair acknowledged the ovation with smiles and waves of their hands.

Board of Curators of the University of Missouri, was circulated yesterday among St. Louis alumni:

"We, the undersigned alumni and former students of the University of Missouri, wish to protest emphatically against the summary dismissal of the students and faculty members involved in the recent sex questionnaire."

"We believe that all persons involved were actuated by an honest and worthy motive and were not consciously guilty of an offense calling for disciplinary action, particularly disciplinary action taken without a previous investigation by the duly constituted body for this purpose, the Committee on Discipline, and without action by your entire board if a matter of academic policy were shown to be involved."

"If, in the opinion of the president, the inquiry constituted a breach of propriety, we beg to inquire why propriety was not observed in dealing with the situation? In proceeding against the undertaking in such a manner as to magnify its significance and label it as a scandal not only to every university student but to the entire country as well, the president was, in our opinion, guilty of an impropriety far exceeding in gravity that of the students."

"From the information available, it seems to us that the questionnaire was a natural incident of the course of study which the faculty approved. Either the course of study should be removed from the curriculum or such questionnaires as this should be expected."

"Much unsavory publicity has resulted from the president's action. As alumni and friends of the university, we deplore this situation, but believe that no good purpose can be served by expulsion of either students or teachers. Such expulsion, we feel, would not only humiliate the University of Missouri among other educational institutions, but would denote a persecution of forthright and conscientious students that would be part and parcel of high injustice."

Two Groups Quit Meeting on Site for U. S. Building

Downtown Improvement Association and Associated Retailers Won't Attend Mayor's Conference.

By the Associated Press.

When a conference called by Mayor Miller to unite factions which differ on the selection of a site for the new Federal Building meets tomorrow for the second session, neither the Associated Retailers of St. Louis nor the Downtown Improvement Association will be represented.

The Associated Retailers today, after listening to Circuit Judge Rutledge and Chairman Russell of the City Plan Commission, advocates of the Plaza site at the Federal Building, voted to withdraw from the Mayor's conference because they felt it could reach no agreement which they might endorse.

The Associated Retailers and the Downtown Improvement Association, which represent the greater portion of downtown business institutions, have agreed on the present Federal Building site at Eighth and Olive streets for the new building. Members of the associations favored other sites but they united on the present one because all are opposed to the Plaza site.

Fears Decrease in Values.

Russell told the Associated Retailers today the City Plan Commission had come to the conclusion public buildings had no influence on property values unless it was to decrease them. For this reason they concluded, he said, that no new public buildings should be erected between Market street, Franklin avenue, Twelfth boulevard and the river, because this district was to experience intensive business development.

Judge Rutledge repeated the arguments for the Plaza site, that it will effectively finish off one corner of the Plaza and create a civic center.

"There is no use talking about a building at Eighth and Olive streets," he said, "because the Government won't put it there. The block is worth $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 and the Government can buy a suitable site for one-fifth of that money."

Predicts Eighth and Chestnut.

"You're going to get the Federal Building at Eighth and Chestnut streets, where no one wants it unless you agree on a Plaza site," he said. The Government recently indicated it favored placing the building there as a compromise.

F. Z. Salomon, treasurer of the May Department Stores, who advocated the Southern Hotel site until the Associated Retailers agreed on the present one, described the Eighth and Chestnut site as "terrible," but said business interest would rather have it there than on the Plaza.

Sidney Baer, of the Stix-Baer & Fuller Department Store, said business interest opposed the Plaza site because it would contribute to the westward trend of development and would unsettle property values downtown.

"The future of downtown property values, is worth any artistic sacrifice that may be necessary," he said.

Summing up the position of business interests, C. E. Williams, of the Associated Retailers said that they felt a downtown location for the Federal Building would anchor property values there.

"We are thinking in terms of the law of self-preservation and not in terms of beauty," he said.

Williams pointed out that a large proportion of property taxes are paid by owners of downtown property and that anything which lessened the value of their property would increase the tax burden on others.

Seeks $150,000 for Alienation.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 19.—James E. Bowyer, buyer for a Livestock Commission Co. today brought suit against a former neighbor, Milton E. Lease, for $150,000, alleging alienation of the affections of Mrs. Grace Bowyer. All principals to the suit are middle-aged. Lease is alleged in the petition to be a millionaire.

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., March 19.—Lou Foote, pilot of the Colonial Airways sightseeing plane which crashed Sunday with a loss of 14 lives, today told Newark police that all his efforts were concentrated on clearing high-tension wires ahead of the plane and that he did not see the string of freight cars against which the craft hurled itself.

The statement was the first coherent account gained from the only survivor of the disaster. Foote, suffering from a fractured skull and numerous broken bones, is in a serious condition at St. James Hospital. Authorities said he had the hallucination that he made a successful forced landing.

The police took the statement from him without questioning. He had been warned that he would die from shock if he knew of the death of all his passengers.

The pilot described the takeoff with the 14 passengers as "heavy." He said he had reached an altitude of between 400 and 500 feet more than a mile from the airport when the port motor of the huge Ford plane died. To gain a safe altitude, he opened up the two others, but the airplane veered so quickly in the direction of the dead motor that he throttled down.

Foote lost altitude rapidly, his statement said, and he made a desperate effort to clear the wires ahead. He thinks now that he landed with a bump in a clearing beyond the tracks and wires. He did not see the tracks or the freight cars on them.

The Kansas City Life Insurance Company Building at Kansas City, Wight & Wight, architects.

"We have used, and are using, a great deal of Copper, Brass and Bronze in our work, thereby avoiding deterioration and making our buildings as nearly permanent as possible."

WIGHT & WIGHT

Wight & Wight

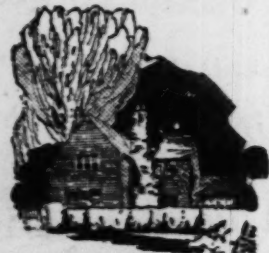

BECAUSE they cannot rust, Copper, Brass and Bronze materials are used in great office buildings and commercial structures of all kinds. And the same reason should lead to their use in every home—for rust is proportionately a far greater source of loss in homes than it is in large buildings.

The leading architects of the country are almost unanimous in advising the use of these enduring materials wherever possible in home construction. The following opinion expressed by Wight & Wight, the well known Kansas City architects, typifies the feelings of all these authorities:

"While our practice has been mainly in connection with large projects, it seems to us just as important for the owners of moderately priced homes to insist on the use of rust-proof materials. Such construction adds little to the cost of the house. And it does protect the owner from the large item of repairs and replacements that inevitably ensue when rustable materials are used."

Write our Building Service Department for additional information. There is no obligation on your part.

Considering their life-long service and their absolute protection against rust, Copper, Brass and Bronze are not expensive even in the construction of small homes.

Gordon, haven't you?' I said, 'Yes.' Then the board asked me in all about six questions, and Mr. Reno said to Mr. Kellogg: 'He is all right, I think. Have you any more questions to ask him?' Kellogg said, 'No, I think he is all right. Then a stationary engineer's license was issued to me.

"In addition to the $75, I paid $22.50 in three monthly payments.

"Pelster's affidavit follows, in part: 'I asked Robert Gordon if there was any chance of getting a stationary engineer's license. He said, 'I guess, and handed me his card and told me to come out to his home. A couple of days after this I went out and he said it would cost me $150. I asked him if I paid $150 if he would guarantee that I would receive a license. 'He said he couldn't guarantee that I would receive a license because he did not know what knowledge I had, nor how fast I could learn to answer the questions. A couple of nights later I went to his home, paid him $150 in currency, and he gave me a set of questions and answers and told me to learn them.

Gets Advice on Boilers.

"About two weeks after that I handed the questions and answers back to him. He asked me if I took a copy of them and I told him 'No.' He then asked me if I knew how to put a Corliss engine on center (one of the questions in the list). I told him I did and he drew a picture of one. Then he drew a picture of a blow-off tank. He told me never to have a boiler blow off except in a tank and never to have it blow off in a sewer.

"That was all the instruction he gave me. A day or two later I filed my application. In about 30 days I received notice from the board to appear for examination. Reno, Altman and Kellogg gave me an oral examination, the major part of the questions being the same as were given to me by Gordon. Mr. Reno asked most of the questions.

"I was given a stationary engineer's license and Reno told me to learn how to figure the horsepower of a boiler and the horsepower of an engine, because someone might ask me that question." Smoke Commissioner Gordon, who was appointed in 1925 by Director of Public Safety Brod, was informed of these affidavits by a Post-Dispatch reporter. He said he has been an engineering instructor for more than 20 years. He was a teacher at the David Ranken Jr. School of Mechanical Trades for 15 years, and since 1910 has conducted private classes at his home.

Denies He Guarantees License.

"A lot of men come to me for instruction," Commissioner Gordon said, "and the first thing many of them ask me is if I can guarantee to get them a license. I always tell them that I have nothing whatever to do with the Engineering Board and that their success, in my school as in any other, depends on their own abilities. 'Finley is sore because I placed the unpaid notes that he gave me for tuition in the hands of my attorney and made him pay up. I don't even remember Pelster. As far as the duplication of questions in my instructions in the board's examination, it should be easily understood that in the thorough course, all important problems are considered. In a brief examination on salient points of engineering, it is not only possible but probable that many of the questions are similar.

"I have access to none of the files or letters of the Board of Engineers, and no knowledge of their applicants for licenses or the questions they ask in examinations. I have taught engineering for many years and I have no intention of quitting now."

Gordon declined to estimate the number of his pupils who had received licenses or the amount of tuition charged at his school, stating that he considered those matters his personal business.

Gets $4000 City Salary.

The Smoke Commissioner receives from the city an annual salary of $4000.

Deputy Smoke Commissioner Hamilton, who suggested, according to Finley, that the latter enroll in Gordon's school, explained that his duties take him into many large plants and in contact with workers. "Many of them ask me where to get instruction so they can get licenses," Hamilton said. "I always tell them they can go to Washington University, the Ranken School, and that Mr. Gordon has a school and is a good practical teacher. I never recommend one over the other."

Chief Boiler and Elevator Inspector Reno denied any possibility of a person not a member of the Board of Engineers gaining a knowledge of questions to be asked license applicants in examination.

Says Examinations Are Strict.

"No one gets by this board," Reno said, "unless they pass the examination in such a way as to convince all of us that he knows how to handle his engine safely. I am approached constantly by men who want to 'get by' without too strict an examination, and I turn them all down. Why, my own brother had to take the examination three times before he passed. We give them a real examination and if they pass it they know their stuff. We don't ask them where they went to school. We try to find out what they know."

With an eye to safety, building owners are compelled by ordinance to employ licensed engineers to operate any engine of more than 15 pounds boiler capacity. Violators are subject to a fine of from $25 to $100 upon conviction. The average wage of an unlicensed fireman or stationary engineer is from $125 to $155 a month. The licensed operator, however, may receive an income of from $40 to $50 a week.

RAYON PLANTS UNDER GUARD IN STRIKE OF 5500 WORKMEN

Militiamen Serving as Deputy Sheriffs in Walkout at Elizabethton, Tenn.

By the Associated Press.
ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., March 19.—National Guardsmen acting as Deputy Sheriffs and not as a military organization today guarded plants of two rayon factories here against 5500 striking workmen whose demands for increases in pay have been refused. Sheriff J. M. Moreland commissioned the guardsmen yesterday afternoon following disturbances.

The strike had its origin a week ago in the plant of the American Glanzstoff Corporation among 800 women workers. Yesterday round employees of the Bemberg Corporation out. A textile union was formed and demands for wage increases ranging as high as 50 per cent were made. Officials in close touch with the situation see little hope for a rapid settlement of differences. The factories refuse to recognize the unions while the new union refuses the old wage scale.

A Fundamental Economic Fact No Motor-Car Buyer Can Ignore

IN THE purchase of a motor-car—or any other commodity—the most vital and compelling factor, regardless of any other consideration, is intrinsic value.

No business institution can ignore this truth and survive. No motor-car buyer can afford to ignore it.

It is the only sure basis of sound, judicious buying.

The principle underlying this fundamental economic fact has long been a tradition and a faith with the Cadillac Motor Car Company.

The buying public understands and appreciates this. It realizes that the highest quality product—the product of greatest intrinsic value—is inevitably the most economical product.

That public has actually itself evaluated Cadillac and La Salle—and not the Cadillac Motor Car Company.

It knows full well the traditional excellence of Cadillac-La Salle craftsmanship.

It sees at work in Cadillac and La Salle the vast buying power of General Motors deliberately planned to permit value-giving in excess of any other standard.

And it quite logically concludes that no other manufacturer can produce as fine a car as can the Cadillac Motor Car Company without exacting a price premium that would make the product prohibitive.

That the public has confirmed its judgment is attested by its loyal allegiance to Cadillac and La Salle and by the new hosts who are constantly flocking to Cadillac-La Salle ownership.

This is proved by the fact that in 1928 Cadillac-La Salle dollar volume exceeded the dollar volume of any manufacturer in the fine car field; and Cadillac-La Salle's business in Fleetwood custom-built models—the very ultimate in luxurious motoring—exceeded the custom-built business of all other American motor-car manufacturers combined.

In fact, the whole and incontestable truth of the matter is that today Cadillac and La Salle actually command preferred position and dollar volume dominance in the fine car field.

And the Cadillac Motor Car Company is the only motor-car company in history that has achieved this preferred position in the quality field and this dollar volume dominance solely because of intrinsic value.

It is the enthusiastic satisfaction and loyalty of the Cadillac-La Salle public that has inspired and, in a very real and literal sense, created the characteristics that make Cadillac and La Salle the finest and smartest cars on the streets of the world.

It is this enthusiasm and this loyalty that have made it possible for the Cadillac Motor Car Company to be constantly raising quality, constantly increasing value, constantly giving more and more for the purchaser's dollar—

More in fine manufacturing; more in beauty, exemplified by Cadillac and La Salle's exquisite Fisher and Fleetwood bodies; more in brilliant performance, through the high refinement and efficiency of the superbly smooth Cadillac-La Salle 90-degree, V-type, 8-cylinder power plant—

More, too, in progressive engineering as most recently evidenced by Cadillac-La Salle's three ultra-modern and exclusive safety features—the Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission, Duplex-Mechanical System of Four-Wheel Brakes and Security-Plate Glass in all windows, doors and windshields.

It is perfectly obvious to all the world that this process has been continuously widening the value gulf between Cadillac-La Salle and cars aspiring to compete with them, until today it is revealed—more emphatically than ever before—that Cadillac and La Salle have no real rivalry.

REFERS TO MILLER'S "GOLDEN PRIMARY"

J. M. Lashly in Radio Speech Urges Election of Mc-Daniel.

Referring to the contest for the Republican mayoral nomination between Mayor Miller, who won it, and former Mayor Kiel as a $300,000 to $400,000 "bottle of the contractors," Jacob M. Lashly, chairman of the Executive Committee for Lawrence McDaniel, Democratic nominee, compared it with Pennsylvania's "golden primary" and Illinois' "bottle of the millions" in a speech over radio station KMOX last night.

He attacked the control of municipal affairs by the Republican machine as subversive of public welfare, and laid particular emphasis on the prevalent assertion that "administration favorites" were essential as "go-betweens" to negotiations with the city for things sought by business men, contractors and bond companies.

Lashly, who is president of the St. Louis Bar Association, told of the difficulty of the people in choosing between the claims of rival candidates for office, and said the answers to two questions might help in reaching a decision. "The first question is this," he said: "Is it true, as has been charged from numerous disinterested sources, that the city is in the grip of a political organization which dictates the manner and amount of collection of all moneys for governmental purposes, controls the expenditure of all public resources, including bond issue moneys; appoints all public officials and engages and discharges all employees who are charged with the work of the city? If the answer to this question shall be found to be in the affirmative, the next question ought naturally to be: What are the consequences to the city of such a condition?"

Refers to Charter.
In answering the first question, Lashly recalled how the present charter, adopted in 1914, had concentrated power in the Mayor and a few other officials and made the legislative body a single house elected at large with the "obvious purpose" of preventing election of minority party aldermen. There were many objections, he continued, that this would turn the city over to the majority party permanently without the benefit of a check by the minority. He added:

"This fear has been more than demonstrated to have been well grounded. The plan has been in operation 15 years and during that time one party has been in complete and undisputed sway and unmitigated control of the city's affairs."

HER MIRROR SAID "YELLOW MASK"

Not Her Dentist Handed Her the Solution
—and Whiter White Teeth

Jane Gray's shape-ly teeth always had a yellowish tinge—but no more! She visited her dentist. After cleaning her teeth he told her: "You get a tube of ORPHOS TOOTH PASTE and stick to it."

She adds: "Since using ORPHOS my teeth have become beautifully white—so white, in fact, all my friends ask the secret of my lovely teeth. For teeth inclined to be yellow, whether the discoloration be from smoking, coffee or food stains, ORPHOS cannot be excelled. Its whitening magic comes from 'Tri-Calcium Phosphate,' the very substance leading dentists use for cleaning teeth. Fine for tender gums, too. Get a tube today. I didn't pay much attention to Bond Bread when it was first introduced here.

My first order was for half a dozen loaves. I read over that bond of purity on the wrapper. I got the notion that this guarantee that every ingredient was the purest and best was a most unusual thing.

That night I took a loaf home. My wife was delighted. A friend of hers had told her about Bond. We sliced it, we tasted it, we toasted it, we did everything with that loaf of bread that a housewife ordinarily does. I'm no cooking expert, but I know good bread, and that loaf was the nearest thing to home-baked I ever tasted.

From that day to this, Bond Bread has had first place in my store. It always will. My customers have found what they wanted and I like Bond Bread too.

M'DANIEL SAYS HE WILL 'REDISCOVER' EFFICIENCY BOARD

Declares Mayor Miller "Has Dragged It From High Position Into Mire of Partisan Politics."

"Efficiency, economy, enforcement" was Mayor Miller's campaign slogan four years ago, his present opponent for the mayoralty. Lawrence M'Daniel, the Democratic nominee, recalled in a speech before the Jefferson Club last night. The record of the Miller administration, however, reads, "Excuses, extravagance, evasions," M'Daniel declared. With this text, M'Daniel devoted his address to the story of the civil service under Mayor Miller, saying: "If elected, I propose to rediscover and revitalize the Efficiency Board, which during this administration has been dragged from the high position it originally held into the mire of partisan politics." M'Daniel continued: "On May 28, 1925, Mayor Miller wrote to the head of the City departments: 'The success of this administration is in a great measure dependent upon the capability and character of the employees. The guide for the selection of employees is our city charter. Under no circumstances are you to violate the provisions of the Charter in the selection of your employees. I shall not interfere with your actions unless I am convinced you have violated the provisions of the law.'"

The Dot System. Facts developed shortly thereafter show that 12 days before he wrote that letter he had already put in the hands of some of his political henchmen letters directed to the chairman of the Efficiency Board, in which by a system of dots he indicated to the chairman his desires and recommendations with relation to the employment of applicants.

"Photostatic copies were printed in the newspapers showing that on May 13, 1925, Mayor Miller signed a number of letters setting forth a list of the persons desiring employment. After the names of some was one dot, of others, two dots; of others, three dots. Charles Hertenstein, chairman of the board, who resigned because he refused to prostitute the office to political ends, explains the meaning of these three dots. He said that Mayor Miller told him when he asked what the dots meant. 'That is our little code. You see, one dot means just ordinary. Two dots mean I am quite interested in him. Three dots mean I am very solicitous for his welfare.'"

"On June 4, 1925, Robert J. Kratky, who was the General, Admiral, adviser and manager, all rolled into one, of the Miller campaign four years ago, but who was a perfect shrinking violet for some reason during the recent campaign, wrote a friend a letter as follows: 'I want to assure you that I am doing the very best I can for our friends. I also want to assure you that the Mayor is making every effort to see that our friends are taken care of somehow. This he wants to do legally. I suggest that you get in touch with Mr. Kiene of the Efficiency Board and tell him the kind of position you would like to have. Find out when the examination for that position takes place. Take the examination and pass it. We will then be in fine shape to help you when the time comes.'"

Kiel Never Interfered. "These things were done in the face of an express provision of the Charter denouncing as a misdemeanor any effort to influence the selection of persons not in accordance with the rules prescribed by the Efficiency Board. The result of this conduct on the part of the Mayor and 'Boss' Kratky was publicly stated by Mr. Hertenstein. He recalled the fact that during the nine years of his service under former Mayor Kiel there was never any attempt on the part of the Mayor to interfere with the functions of the Efficiency Board."

"In his letter to Mayor Miller, Mr. Hertenstein said: 'Since you have come into the office a change has come over the situation. In spite of your promise that faithful and efficient employees should be encouraged, well paid and retained, the classified service has been invaded by you or subordinates ap-'" pointed by you, with your evident approval, since you do nothing to stop the invasion. Valuable and efficient employees have been dismissed and in the absence of an eligible list temporary appointments have been made to individuals who were so-called Miller workers, without reference to their qualifications for the offices to which they were temporarily appointed."

Favoritism for Efficiency. "Remember that this indictment was lodged against the present incumbent by an honored and high-minded public official within less than three months from the date of the incumbent's election on a platform of 'Efficiency, economy and enforcement.' Within three months of his election, therefore, he had set up favoritism in place of efficiency, and instead of enforcement he had given the people evasion, if not direct violation of the charter. The Mayor's subsequent conduct was consistent with his policy of favoritism. The double-dot and three-dot men were taken care of. Mr. Hertenstein was supplanted by a man who was at the time in the employ of the city. The charter provides that no person holding any salaried public office shall be eligible to appointment to the Efficiency Board. So eager was the Mayor to get this friend in that he appointed him before he had resigned from the job he was then holding. When confronted with the charter violation he had the intelligible gentleman resign and then appointed him to the board. This is another performance of the gentleman elected on a platform of 'efficiency, economy and enforcement.'

M'DANIEL SAYS HE WILL 'REDISCOVER' EFFICIENCY BOARD

 "In the recent campaign it was charged in the press in broad headlines that the Efficiency Board, which, as the press stated, was formed for the purpose of eliminating political influence from the selection of city employees, was using its power to line up committeemen and committeewomen for Mayor Miller.

 "A Purpose That Will Live."
 "This same policy of favoritism and disregard of efficiency invaded the city hospitals and forced the resignation of Dr. Spector, tuberculosis controller. It invaded the Department of Public Utilities and forced the resignation of the honored and venerable public servant,
 Edward E. Wall. It invaded the workhouse and drove out Col. Morgan, a man respected and loved by all who knew him. It marched into the city jail and replaced the incumbent with a Miller man. It dethroned Fire Chief Panzer, a loyal public servant, and replaced him for the purpose of using the Fire Department for political purposes.
 It invaded the Isolation Hospital and put 92 employees to caring for 65 patients, where 35 employees had cared for 57 patients theretofore.
 Last and more sinister still, the policy of favoritism and scorn of efficiency moved the present in-incumbent to endeavor to take over into his political control the Public Library, the Art Museum and the Zoo.

 "Let's revise the slogan 'Efficiency, economy and enforcement.'
 Let's have more than a slogan. Slogans, as we have learned, may die in the shouts of victory and become but a mockery when read in the light of performance. Let's have a purpose that will live not only to election day but through an administration."

 McDaniel opened his address with a reference to the growing tendency to select local public officials without regard to "mere party considerations," saying: "The people of St. Louis in recent years have demonstrated marked independence and discrimination in the exercise of their suffrage." He cited a number of instances here of widely divergent majorities for both Democratic and Republican candidates who were elected. He interpreted the figures to mean that:
 "The people were moved more by considerations of public good than mere party welfare; they were looking for efficiency in their government."

 Repeating his pledge for efficient government, McDaniel declared that while he was a Democrat his test for appointing city employees would be efficiency and honesty.
 As evidence of his good faith he pointed to his record as Circuit Attorney, 1917-21, and to the "lawyers of outstanding ability" who were his assistants, those of whom who are living now being "leading members of the St. Louis bar."
 None of his appointees was criticized publicly or privately, he said, and none had to be discharged.
 This proved, he maintained, that as Mayor he would appoint men of character and ability.

First of Series of Radio Talks by Woman for McDaniel.

 Politics in local government is an anachronism, it was asserted in a talk over radio station KWK yesterday in behalf of Lawrence Mc-Daniel by Mrs. Lewis E. Priny, president of the Arcadia College Alumnae and of the St. Francis Mothers' Club. This was the first of a series of connected, daily, five-minute addresses by women arranged by Mrs. Nat E. Brown, chairman of the Women's Committee of the McDaniel program. Mrs.
 Priny continued:

 "In choosing your Mayor, your vote goes not for one man alone, but indirectly you choose the direct heads of some mighty important offices. These are filled by direct appointment of the Mayor: Assessors, Supply Commissioner, Register, Counselor, Marshal, Police Judge, clerk of Police Courts, president of Board of Public Service, Director of Public Utilities, Director of Streets and Sewers, Director of Public Welfare and Director of Public Safety. Do you want these men chosen because of party loyalty, as a reward for personal favors, to perpetuate a machine? or do you prefer to have them chosen on their merits and qualifications for their respective departments?"

Happy Day, a Kiel Manager, Comes

Out for McDaniel.

 F. Happy Day, who was in charge of former Mayor Kiel's campaign reception headquarters in the Holland Building during the Republican primary contest, has joined the Twenty-eighth Ward

 McDaniel-for-Mayor Club and will share a period on radio station KWK with McDaniel tonight. Day said he was a Republican but independent in municipal affairs.
 and was convinced that McDaniel is better qualified than Mayor Miller.

SEIBERT AVENUE WOMAN VICTIM OF CHRONIC ARTHRITIS FOR SIX YEARS

 Joints Were Sore and Stiff—Tells How Simple Remedy Weldon Tablets Conquered Ailment.

 "I am so happy to recommend Weldon tablets to others who may quite awhile before I was able to walk away.
 "The pain was often so severe at night that I was compelled to walk the floor to find relief. Reading about so many St. Louis people who had been benefited by Weldon tablets, I decided to try them—took them for one month and I feel like a new woman. The pain and stiffness has left my knees. I can now go up and down stairs without discomfort. Can walk right away after getting up from a chair and able to bend my knees as well as ever. I really cannot praise Weldon tablets too highly and will gladly verify my statement if anyone wishes to write or call on me."

MRS. C. JENNEW EIN.

 suffer with rheumatism that I would like to shout from the house tops," said Mrs. Catherine Jennewein, who resides at 4940 Seibert Ave., to the Weldon representative. Mrs. Jennewein continued: "The pain and stiffness involved my knees and ankles so that I could not go up or down stairs without pulling on to the bannister and lifting one leg up after the other. After sitting down it was almost impossible to get up because of the stiffness of the knee joints. I would have to stand for $1000 reward to anyone proving this testimonial is not genuine.

 Weldon tablets are always put up in a box—never in a bottle. Ask for Weldon tablets, which are recommended for rheumatism and rheumatic conditions only. Weldon tablets are absolutely harmless and will not upset the stomach, affect the heart or any other organ.
 The Weldon representative, who now meets the public every day at Walgreen's drug store, 514 Washington Ave., St. Louis, gladly explains more about this remedy and gives out the 24-page fully illustrated and interesting book, entitled "Germs of Rheumatism," which are absolutely free of charge to all who call or write for them.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

 The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

 Dr. Edwards, a well-known physcompound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave his patients for years.

 Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are

How to Have Soft,

Pretty White Hands

Many women will be glad to know how they may have beautiful, white, soft, pretty hands regardless of the work they have to do. They secret lies in rubbing a little Ice-Mint into the hands occasionally preferably just before retiring at night. In the morning you will be surprised at the pleasant transformation that has been wrought by even a single application. Ice-Mint is made from a Japanese product that is simply marvelous for its beautifying properties whether used on the hands or face. Regardless of what kind of work a woman does she should have pretty hands as they are really the true marks of refinement.
A few applications of Ice-Mint will actually make any woman proud of her hands and skin. It costs little and is sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere.

QUICK CHANGE

ARTIST BOASTS

19-Year-Old Negro Tells

Police He Wore Different

Clothes Each Time He Robbed Places.

In confessing 16 holdups and a burglary to police after his arrest last night, Sylvester Harrington, 19-year-old Negro, boasted that he was a quick-change artist as well as a robber.

"I used three sweaters, a gabardine coat, a raincoat, a blue suit, a gray overcoat and a dark gray overcoat in my work," the prisoner related. "I never wore the same combination of clothes twice, and that made it harder to trace me."

"I kept changing the kind of places to hold up, too. First I would rob oil stations for a while, then groceries, then pedestrians on the streets, then Kroger stores.

After that I would start all over again with oil stations."

Beginning Nov. 20, Harrington held up 10 stores, four filling stations, two pedestrians and robbed one house, his loot totaling $400, which he "spent for a good time."

He held up two places twice each, and held up one Kroger store manager twice—once in his store and once on the way home.

On Feb. 28 Harrington slugged Mrs. Rose Levit in her grocery at 2201 Clark avenue, when she refused to hold up her hands. He obtained $20 there.

His arrest resulted from the theft of $3 and some apparel from the home of Mrs. Olivia Turner, Negro, 2323 Clark avenue. Mrs.
Turner suspected Harrington and told police he was a "bad man."

Robber With Napoleonic Pose Holds Up Two Filling Stations.

A man who held a pair of kid gloves in his left hand and thrust his right hand into his vest, in a Napoleonic attitude, held up two filling stations last night, drawing a revolver from under the vest, much to the surprise of the station attendants. The robber obtained $21 at 7054 Clayton avenue, and $30 at Whittier street and Washington boulevard.

Other holdups: St. Clair Loan
Co., 2806 North Grand boulevard, $142.20; filling station at 1904
South Vandeventer avenue, $146; grocery of William Stahlman, 1341 South Eleventh street, $148; fill-
boulevards, $25; Miss Marie Marlow, 1219 North Prairie avenue, $5; Ernest Gieslow, Yellow taxi cab chauffeur, robbed of $5 and cab, later abandoned.

Two boys snatched a purse from Louise Hales, 4104W Natural Bridge avenue, near her home. She screamed. Three men chased the boys. The boys discarded the purse and escaped.

Fred Buckner, 58, 1905 South
Broadway, reported he was beaten and robbed of $28.03 while resting under the Grand boulevard viaduct.
He was treated at city hospital for a fractured skull and jaw and a lacerated ear.

Survived by Widow; Funeral Ser-

John Edwin Thomson, retired

tel.

Mr. Thomson retired about 20 years ago. Born in St. Louis and educated at the old St. Louis High School, he was at various times

He is survived by his widow, and Mrs. Emma Southern, both of How to Reduce

Varicose Veins

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the

Many people have become desponbelieve that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moore's Emerald Oil is a harm-

ASSESSED VALUE IN ENTIRE STATE
IS $4,190,231,092

Tax Commission in Recommendation Increases Total by $7,462,562 Over 1928 Mark.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—

A total assessed valuation of $4,190,231,092 for all real estate and personal property in Missouri was recommended for 1929 taxes by the State Tax Commission yesterday, in its report to the State Board of Equalization, which will fix the final assessments.

This is an increase of $7,462,562 over the assessment of $4,182,768,530 fixed by the State Board of Equalization for real estate and personal property last year, and is an increase of $17,866,369 over the assessments reported for this year by the local assessors.

The figure recommended by the Tax Commission includes $1,420,530,873 for land, $2,137,458,582 for town lots, which means real estate in cities, towns and villages, and $631,931,637 for personal property.

The assessment recommended by the commission for land is a decrease of $42,855,902 from the assessment fixed for land last year, while the assessment recommended for real estate in cities, towns and villages is an increase of $66,705,253 over the assessment of such property for last year.

Farm Assessments Cut.
This reduction of the assessments of farm land, and increasing of the valuations for city and town property follows the trend of the State Board of Equalization for the last several years. Each year the farm land assessments have been reduced and the city assessments for real estate increased.

The assessment of $1,042,337,090 recommended for real estate in the city of St. Louis is approximately 29 per cent of the $3,558,299,455 recommended by the commission as the valuation for all real estate in Missouri.

The assessment of personal property in St. Louis was placed at $166,755,870, making a total of $1,209,092,960 for real estate and personal property in St. Louis. In this recommendation the commission adopted without change the report of the St. Louis Assessor. The city assessment will be increased later by the valuations to be fixed for public utilities and the assessment of merchants and manufacturers.

St. Louis County Valuation.
The assessment in St. Louis County of $173,319,090 for real estate and $25,220,170 for personal property, is an increase of $10,613,326 compared to the 1928 figures. Virtually all of the increase was on real estate.

Valuations of real estate and personal property are the first taken up by the State board each year. After the State Board of Equalization has passed upon the recommendations of the Tax Commission on these two classes of property, the commission will submit recommendations on assessments of private cars operated on railroads, such as refrigerators and oil tank cars, and assessments of railroads, street railways, bridges, telephone, telegraph, oil pipe lines and electric companies.

The utility assessments totaled $486,119,487 last year, and the private car valuation was $5,292,600.

Merchants' Assessments.
One other item, the merchants' and manufacturers' assessments, is added to the total for the State the latter part of the year, but this assessment is made by local authorities and is not passed on by the State Board of Equalization.

The personal property assessment of $631,931,637 recommended by the Tax Commission carries a reduction of $16,356,739, compared with last year, the principal reductions being on stock of banks, money, notes and bonds.

Automobiles, one of the 17 items making up the personal property classification, were valued at $87,080,117 by the Tax Commission, which is a reduction of $1,131,685 from the valuation fixed for automobiles by the Board of Equalization last year.

$36,842,347 INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS ON MARCH 16

Total for Month Now $109,346,854.
Increase of $9,000,000 Over Last Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Collections from income tax reported to the treasury on March 16 amounted to $109,346,854, bringing the total for the month of March to $109,346,854, an increase of $9,000,000 over the similar period of last year.

Total income tax receipts for the fiscal year starting last July 1 now amount to $1,194,547,649, lacking only $10,000,000 of equaling the sum collected from the same source during the same period of last year. A treasury statement issued today showed that the excess of expenditures over ordinary receipts for the fiscal year now amounts to $390,286,752, but that the treasury, due to sales of treasury certificates of indebtedness, had on hand at the close of business March 16 a balance of $409,357,694. A year ago on the same date the excess of expenditures over ordinary receipts amounted to only $43,255,827.

Super-Heterodyne

Hear this finest of all radio instruments before choosing a new set Radiola Super-Heterodynes of the "60" series are the finest broadcast receivers offered by the Radio Corporation of America.

They are the product of the research of a great staff of electrical and acoustical engineers at RCA, General Electric and Westinghouse.

Designed to provide the greatest possible realism of reproduction of music and the voice—in any desired volume—they are also built to give fine performance under the most exacting conditions.

In many locations near powerful broadcasting stations, the Super-Heterodyne is the only receiver that will provide good reception. It is because of its unique characteristics that the super-heterodyne principle is used in the radio compass, in marine coastal stations, and in receiving instruments in broadcasting stations.

There's nothing like a Super-Heterodyne.

SOMETHING wonderful has happened! Anheuser-Busch has developed a yeast that really tastes good.

It is the first yeast that combines remarkable corrective, health-building properties with a delicate, palatable flavor. A quick-acting yeast with the pleasing flavor of food.

You'll relish it. You'll enjoy it. You'll find it different and better than any other yeast you have ever tried. And you'll gain in strength and vitality from its wonderful health-building properties.

For Busch Healthrise Yeast puts a keen edge upon the appetite in far less time. Improves elimination much more rapidly. Quickly brings a clear, smooth, youthful skin.

And, because you eat it with pleasure, digestion improves much more rapidly.

A Fortune to Perfect It

For over seventy years we have been growing yeast for our own use and for famous medical institutions.

But even with this long experience, we spent a fortune especially to develop and perfect this super-quality yeast. Tested it in conjunction with yeast experts and dietitians over a long period of time. Until we had made sure that Busch Healthrise Yeast was better on every count than any other ever offered.

Naturally, a super-quality yeast like this costs a little more than ordinary kinds. Two cents a cake, to be exact. And like every article of supreme quality—is worth anything you care to say.

Now we invite you to try it at our expense, confident that you will be amazed and delighted when you do so.

For you will find that Busch Healthrise Yeast is a tempting, palatable food that you will want to eat regularly, as yeast should be eaten for beneficial results.

MAYOR WILL OPEN CAMPAIGN TONIGHT

Kiel Will Preside at Meeting in North St. Louis Turner
Hall.

Mayor Miller will open his campaign for re-election at a mass meeting tonight at North St. Louis Turner Hall, Twentieth and Salisbury streets, where he began his campaign four years ago, on March 24, 1925, after gaining nomination for the first time.

He has given no hint of the nature of his plans to defeat the Democratic nominee, Lawrence McDaniel, but it is expected that he will follow much the same line of arguments used in the primary concerning work accomplished by the city during his term.

Republicans from the First, Second, Third, Eleventh, Twentieth, Twenty-first and Twenty-second wards have been invited to attend. The hall is large. Former Mayor Kiel carried the Third and Eleventh wards against Miller. Kiel is to preside at the meeting and introduce Miller, carrying out his idea of party loyalty, in spite of the bitter attacks the rival candidates made on each other before the primary. An important object of the gathering, in the opinion of Republican managers, will be to accentuate harmony between the two factions of the party.

Forrest C. Donnell and Walter C. Plosser, president of the Young St. Louisans' Miller-for-Mayor Club, also will speak. Donnell is a law partner of Jacob M. Lashly, who is managing the Democratic campaign for McDaniel.

Radio is to play an important part in the campaign. William R. Orthwein, who directed an intensive use of the radio for Miller in the primary, has a similar task for the Republican City Committee now. He will speak into the microphone next Thursday night, as will Assistant City Counselor Jules R. Field, while Donnell will talk tomorrow night. Health Commissioner Starkloff on Friday and John B. Edwards, former chairman of the Election Board, on Saturday. Next week there will be additional radio speeches. The Republicans have arranged only seven large meetings for the campaign.

The Democrats likewise will make considerable use of the radio and the number of McDaniel's appearances at meetings will be restricted.

FIVE WOMEN ARE INJURED IN THREE AUTO ACCIDENTS

Mrs. Leona Antinoro Suffers Skull Fracture; Miss Laura A. Sherman, Court Worker, Run Down.

Mrs. Leona Antinoro suffered fractures of the skull and ribs, and Mrs. Helen Carenza suffered cuts and bruises when an automobile driven by Mrs. Antinoro overturned after colliding with a machine driven by Mario Colombo, 5642 Southwest avenue, at Brannon and Southwest avenues yesterday afternoon. Both women, who live at 5311 Arsenal street, are at city hospital.

Miss Laura A. Sherman, 3816 A St. Louis avenue, an investigator for the Court of Domestic Relations, suffered possible internal injuries and was cut and bruised at 6:45 p. m. yesterday when struck by an automobile driven by Joseph Sabala, a watchman, of 4147 Labadie avenue, at Grand boulevard and St. Louis avenue.

Mrs. Anna Owen, 618 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, suffered fractures of the ribs and collar bone and Miss Carrie Killion, 64, of 343 Collingsville avenue, suffered internal injuries when an automobile driven by Mrs. Owen's husband, Fred, collided with a machine driven by Charles Witt, 2929 South Jefferson avenue, at Jefferson avenue and Crittenden street last night.

THIRD OF FOUR OVERLAND BANK ROBBERS IDENTIFIED

W. L. McGraw Arrested in Connection With Cashier's Murder in $11,000 Holdup.

William L. McGraw, 23 years old, a chauffeur, has been identified as one of four men who held up and robbed the Overland State Bank of $11,000, Jan. 18, when Todd V. Phelps, the cashier of the bank, was killed with a shotgun. The prosecuting attorney's office at Clayton announces today.

McGraw was arrested by St. Louis detectives and held without bond. A warrant charging robbery and murder will be issued against him. The name of the identifying witness was not revealed. Sylvester Baldwin, ex-convict, and William O'Hara, service car driver, are in Clayton jail under similar charges. Baldwin has been identified as the robber with the shotgun.

AGENTS SEIZE 425 GALLONS OF WHISKY IN SALOON RAID

Prohibition agents seized 425 gallons of moonshine whisky in barrels, kegs and cans in an anteroom of the saloon of Buehr Binig, at the southwest corner of Vandeventer and Clayton avenues, Monday afternoon. It was the largest seizure here since the Jones law, authorizing a five-year prison term and a $10,000 fine for dry law violations, became effective.

Binig and his bartender, Mike Petrosky, were held under $1000 bond each, charged with sale and possession of intoxicating liquor. The raid was based on a search warrant issued after agents had bought drinks in the saloon according to Deputy Administrator James Dillon.

Both Petrosky and Binig are natives of Rumania, and Petrosky, who has not been naturalized, faces deportation if convicted.

BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB SUIT DROPPED, THEN REINSTATED

The suit of the Business Men's Club, 4251 Lindell boulevard, to enjoin police from raiding the house as a gambling resort, was reinstated today after being dismissed yesterday by Circuit Judge Sale when neither the club members nor their lawyer appeared for a scheduled hearing.

The lawyer explained there had been a misunderstanding of the date of the hearing.

Why ATTILIO of Rome Beauty Specialist to the Italian Royal Family advises all of his patrician clients to use Palmolive Soap twice daily

"The finest cleansing agents for the skin are, by general consent, olive and palm oils. For that reason, I always ask my clients to help me in the task of improving their complexions by cleansing the skin twice a day with Palmolive Soap, which embodies these two soothing oils in their purest form."

right kind of soap, because many kinds are not only unsuitable but positively harmful to the complexion. I always ask my clients to use Palmolive Soap, which embodies the finest cleansing agents for the skin."

Attilio's distinguished colleagues, in every great capital of Europe, in every smart resort... repeat this same advice. Madame Valentin Le Brun, Lisa Cavallieri, of Paris; Pessl, of Vienna and Budapest, advisor to crowned heads of Europe... these and dozens of other experts tell their discriminating clients this easily-performed, twice-a-day treatment: massage a smooth lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water into the skin. Allow it to penetrate the pores. Rinse, after two minutes, first with warm water, now with cold. Then—and only then—are you ready for make-up!

If you do not already keep your skin fresh and lovely in this way, take the advice of the world's experts: begin to use Palmolive today!

A precious formula embodying the precious oils of palm and olive, famous since the days of Cleopatra for promoting health and beauty.

PHRASE IN KELLOGG TREATY
DELAYS JAPANESE APPROVAL

Government Issues Statement Upholding Pact After Charges in Diet.

TOKIO, March 19.—The Japanese Government today published a lengthy statement upholding the Kellogg antiwar pact.

The statement was in reply to interpellations in the Diet by Yokio Onaki, leader of the Constitutional party, in which it was charged that the phrase, "in the name of their respective peoples" in Article One of the treaty is in violation of the Emperor's sole right to make treaties.

The political squabble which flared up recently in the Diet over the phrase is one of the reasons why Japan, alone of the original signatories, has not yet ratified the treaty. The Government's statement insists first that the phraseology is in nowise contrary to the spirit and letter of the Japanese Constitution, second that a Japanese translation has not yet been made but will be published shortly after a careful study of the document.

It also stated that the phraseology is in nowise contrary to the spirit and letter of the Japanese Constitution, second that a Japanese translation has not yet been made but will be published shortly after a careful study of the document.

Daugherty Calls Harding 'A Great President,' Victim Of Underhand Whisperings

Cannot Understand Why Cabinet Failed to Come to His Defense — Labels Picture in 'Revelry' All Lies.

(Copyright, 1929.)
SARASOTA, Fla., March 19.—Harry M. Daugherty, Attorney-General in the Harding Cabinet, broke his long silence here today and in an address at the winter home in Hotel Elvenera defended not only his own public career, but that of President Harding, who he termed "a great man and a great President."

Daugherty derided the publication of a book ("Revelry," by Samuel Hopkins Adams), the characters in which, he said, sought to inferentially portray himself, President Harding and others in the Harding Cabinet in a detrimental light as "a volume built on a foundation of falsehood."

"President Harding was a great, big, honest man," Daugherty said with feeling in his voice. "It is hard enough to attack a man when he is alive, but it is a terrible thing to attack him when he is dead. They waited until he was dead."

"Never Craved Power," while he personally played an important part in the late President's life, he never wanted to be Attorney-General, he said, but when he did accept the office at the personal solicitation of the President he "did the job honestly and fearlessly." He pointed out with pride to his record, regardless of the fact that a Senate committee investigated the conduct of his office. He said the investigation was inspired by his enemies.

He said he never saw and never inside the "mythical little green house in K Street" in Washington and that President Harding was never in it. Daugherty added that he is preparing to "unwind this ball of yarn" and that shortly thereafter he could drink in the daytime and work. I couldn't drink at night, because it would keep me awake.

"No one lived more decently in Washington than he did, or than I did. I can't understand these attacks. I made plenty of enemies and they blamed Harding for anything I did they disliked."

"I have always been an advocate of sobriety, although I had no aversion to taking an occasional cocktail. I never could drink in the daytime and work. I couldn't drink at night, because it would keep me awake."

"Many people may have a wrong idea of President Harding," he said. "He was a genial, charming and peace-loving man, but he was more than that. He had a strong character. He was President of the United States and no one else."

Harding Ruled Cabinet.
"Harding had a keen mind. He had a great Cabinet for he believed in surrounding himself with big men."

"But when Harding sat at the Cabinet sessions they knew that he was President of the United States. He had a Cabinet whom he allowed to speak its mind, but he, himself, decided the ultimate policy."

"The little green house myth was the start of a story that grew like a snowball rolling down hill. Once it got started, the story was added to in a fantastic manner. It was bandied about so much that many people actually believed it."

"The American people, unfortunately, do not study government. They think of sports, of automobiles, dancing and various diversions. They are susceptible to scandal stories. I was never afraid of a lie. A falsehood will ultimately be run to earth, even though a lie is harder to catch up with than the truth, and is more likely to be believed. I wouldn't tell a lie to the public and I never will and I will in my own time and my own way tell the American people the full facts about the Harding administration, and they can then judge for themselves."

Daugherty, now 69 years old and totally blind in the left eye, received the correspondent in his room. He looked physically like a strongly built man about 6 feet tall. He was attired in golf clothes and was smoking a pipe. He wore horn-rimmed glasses. He is partly bald, florid-complexioned and has a rugged, weathered face.

"I have refrained from talking for publication and I really do not want to do so now," he said. "I have always been opposed to making anything that could be construed as a defensive statement. I am used to being attacked, and I guess I can stand it. I don't know that I ever will be in public life again. I am taking it easy, receiving a few old friends here, and taking care of my health."

Switching to a discussion of the "Little Green House on K Street," Daugherty said:

"I never was in it. Harding was never in it, and I never heard of any member of the Harding Cabinet being in it. If there was such a place, I never heard of Cabinet members holding conferences there. I wired Senator James A. Watson to that effect a week ago, because I just thought I'd stir the monkeys up a bit."

"I cannot understand why members of the Harding Cabinet were not quick to repudiate the public attacks and the underhand whisperings directed against President Harding after he died. I was so close to Harding that a defense of him coming from me did not seem to be the thing that was needed."

"In my opinion it was a high honor to be a member of the Harding Cabinet. I observed, however, that no member of the Harding Cabinet had a word to say in the dead President's behalf."

"Why, his administration was a wonderful success. It needs no apology. His plans and policies, having been carried out, have made the country happy and prosperous."

"This book that was published was built on a foundation of falsehood. Why, it pictured the President as having become intoxicated in the Little Green House, of having played cards there with me and others, and what is worse, it brought in a fictitious woman."

"Whole Thing Ridiculous."
His voice rising in indignation, Daugherty declared: "None of that could have occurred to either the President of the United States or to the Attorney-General. There were always at least half a dozen persons, secret service men, who knew my every move, and the President's every move. The whole thing is ridiculous."

"No one lived more decently in Washington than he did, or than I did. I can't understand these attacks. I made plenty of enemies and they blamed Harding for anything I did they disliked."

"I have always been an advocate of sobriety, although I had no aversion to taking an occasional cocktail. I never could drink in the daytime and work. I couldn't drink at night, because it would keep me awake."

"Many people may have a wrong idea of President Harding," he said. "He was a genial, charming and peace-loving man, but he was more than that. He had a strong character. He was President of the United States and no one else."

U. S. DETERMINES POLICY FOR ARMS PARLEY AT GENEVA

Kellogg Announces American Delegation Will Not Be Empowered to Discuss Naval Limitations.

DECISION REACHED AT CONFERENCE

If Question of Sea Power Is Raised Secretary of State Says It Will Be Referred to Washington.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 19.—The policy to be followed by the representatives of the United States at the sixth meeting of the preparatory disarmament commission to be held in Geneva beginning April 15, has been determined at the State Department by officials directly interested in the project.

The meeting yesterday was attended by Secretary of State Kellogg, Secretary of War Good and Secretary of the Navy Adams, and virtually the whole delegation which represented the United States at Geneva last year, including Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, who again will head the delegation from this country next Monday.

The nature of the decision reached was not disclosed as the instructions to the delegates always are kept secret. Secretary Kellogg, however, has let it be known that the American delegates will not be empowered to discuss the question of naval limitations. If this should be raised it will be referred to Washington for consideration.

The State Department has not yet officially announced the American delegation, and consequently it is not known to those attending the conference. In addition to the three secretaries and Gibson, those present included Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired; Rear Admiral Andrew T. Long, Commander of the U. S. Navy; Maj. George V. Strong and J. N. Greely, and Assistant Secretary Castle and J. Theodore Marriner, chief of the division of Western European Affairs of the State Department.

The meeting at Geneva will resume its study which has been under discussion for some years concerning a limitation and reduction of armaments by agreement and will deal with the power of a country both on land and sea. Its purpose is to prepare a draft treaty to be discussed at a final disarmament conference which would be held at Washington in 1931.

American delegates to the meeting have not been instructed to discuss limitation because the official agenda calls for a discussion of the Russian project for partial disarmament of land forces and the German proposal for publicity with regard to armaments. The American views on naval limitations will come up in 1931 before another meeting of this country with Great Britain, Japan, Italy and France.

BILL TO AUTHORIZE CITY PLANNING PASSES HOUSE

One of Three Measures Sponsored by Missouri League of Municipalities.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—The House today passed a bill authorizing any city, town or village in Missouri to establish a planning commission and carry on city planning work. It is one of a series of three bills sponsored by the Missouri League of Municipalities.

The other two bills, permitting planning and zoning in unincorporated areas of counties, have passed the House and now are before the Senate.

The act passed today is an enabling act. Cities, towns and villages may take advantage of it and create planning commissions through ordinance, or by the initiative, such ordinances passed by the municipal legislative body may be subjected to a referendum vote.

The bill was introduced in the House by Representatives Bamber and Elvins and Heege of St. Louis County.

WILKINS TELLS OF PLANS FOR RETURN TO ANTARCTIC

EXPECTS TO FACE GREATER DANGERS ON SECOND CRUISE

Explorer Hopes to Help Establish Weather Bureaus in South Polar Area to Forecast Seasons.

PLANES NOW HOUSED IN SHED ON ISLAND

Conditions Along Coastline of Continent Offer Great Hazards to Flyers, Commander Says.

TODAY'S installment of the narrative written by Sir Hubert Wilkins, concerning his flights and discoveries in the South Pole region, deals with his plan to return again this year and continue his observations, the ultimate purpose of which is to obtain such data as will warrant the building of permanent weather stations there. Such establishments, he thinks, will enable growers of crops in temperate zones to so accurately forecast conditions months ahead that the people of many nations will be materially benefited.

CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS COMMANDER OF THE WILKINS ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Here among the comforts and conveniences of civilization, as we find them in New York City, one may experience difficulty in imagining why we should want to return to the frozen wastes of the Antarctic; but it is not only from civilization that those of us who have been privileged to gain a scientific education and polar experience realize to the fullest extent the advantage of the work to be done in the polar regions.

This work really concerns civilization more than any other part of the world because the ultimate value of our work will be found in the influences it will have on the prices of all civilized necessities, particularly food and clothing. It is not only the polar regions that we will collect information that will enable us to forecast seasonal conditions and to provide the farmers and grazers with facts enabling them to plan the proper sorts of crops at the right time of year.

Years of Study Needed.
This is work that cannot be done by an expedition covering only a few months. It will require years of study at stations actually in the Arctic and Antarctic regions, and the results of these studies will have to be correlated with observations taken in the temperate latitudes. It is expected that the establishment of stations in the Arctic will be undertaken by the Aero Arctic Society, with headquarters in Berlin, and some of the stations which will be established in areas discovered by Lieut. E. E. Elson and me when we flew across the Arctic last year.

The Aero Arctic Society expects to establish six stations, with the aid of giant Zeppelins. But when the time comes to establish points of observation in the Antarctic, it will be the airplane and not the Zeppelin that we will have to depend on for means of communication.

The flights carried out by our expedition and by Commander Byrd in the Antarctic this year proved beyond doubt the feasibility of using airplanes in the great white South. With airplanes this year, we established one point from which observations may be taken with advantage. But there is still more than 2000 miles of coastline between Heard Land and the Ross Sea to be discovered, and it is somewhere in this area that a station of the utmost importance to Australia and South America must be placed.

Planes Now in Storage.
Our Lockheed planes, with their wings removed, are now housed in a great iron shed at Deception Island in a week or so, Deception Island will be deserted even by the whalers. Our machines, together with the whalers' equipment, will remain here until some time in November. We have no fear for the safety of our equipment, nor do we expect that it will deteriorate in any way.

For 14 years the whalers have maintained on the shores of Deception Island a factory for the treatment of whales, and they know by experience that their engines and machinery do not rust or become affected in any way by the extreme temperatures of the winter season. The wings and fuselage of our machines are well covered with waterproof canvas, the engines are well greased and oiled, and three days after we return to Deception Island we expect to have everything in readiness to continue our geographical work in the South.

We will take our two machines and start early to avoid the difficulties we encountered this year through the melting of the ice. We will fly south from the most westerly point of Heard Land. This flight will take us over the western side of Graham Land, instead of the east side along which we flew this year. It will be a hazardous flight because our machines will be heavily loaded.

No Places to Land.
The first 200 miles will be made over ice-strewn water and for 500 miles between high, rugged mountain peaks affording no possible place to land in safety. But our planes will be equipped with skis, and I am looking forward to finding forced landing grounds on the huge tabular icebergs which may be found in the Deception Straits.

This year, when we flew from Deception Island, we observed an iceberg 25 miles long, straight sided and perfectly flat on top. It would have made an ideal landing in an emergency, but drifting with the current made it change its position from day to day.

When we have flown to Heard Land we will await weather reports from the Norwegian whalers in the Ross Sea and from Commander Byrd. Then with one machine, piloted by Lieut. E. E. Elson, we will take off with the heaviest possible load and follow the coast until we come to the Ross Sea barrier.

Our discoveries this year show that the coast of the Antarctic continent south from Graham Island is low. We believe that the land will extend almost to King Edward VII Land and so will afford us good flying conditions throughout the journey. In the Antarctic, it is generally in the neighborhood of mountains and open water that boldest weather is experienced. We had our share of that sort of weather at Deception this year.

When we got farther south we saw that the whole sea surface was ice-covered and that the mountain range had disappeared. Even the snow surface on the new continent, which we observed at the edge of the ice, was so terribly cracked that it would be impossible to follow the level of the coast. And it would be necessary to travel some distance inland or on the floating sea ice.

Can't Travel on Foot.
The fact that the Antarctic continent in the American sector is so low near the coast presents an additional flying hazard in case of trouble with our engine, although it may afford us better weather. I believed before our flight this year that it would be possible for parties to continue on foot along the Antarctic coast line, but our observations showed that this would be a very difficult undertaking. The ice near the edge of the low land is so terribly cracked that it would be impossible to follow the level of the coast. And it would be necessary to travel some distance inland or on the floating sea ice.

If we traveled on land, it would be impossible to replenish our food

KELLOGG INQUIRING INTO SEIZURE OF LEGATION'S LIQUOR

Secretary of State to Decide if Diplomatic Immunity of Siamese Embassy Was Violated.

OFFICIAL WASHINGTON STIRRED BY INCIDENT

Charge Made That Police and Dry Agents Persistently Ignore Foreign Envoys' Privileges.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Persistent violation of diplomatic immunity by Washington policemen and prohibition agents, threatens at last to create a serious international situation. Secretary of State Kellogg announced yesterday that he was conducting an investigation of the incident last Friday, when a truckload of liquor consigned to the Siamese legation here was seized by a local policeman, and a legation attaché who was riding on it was detained for two hours at a police station.

The fact that Secretary Kellogg acted without waiting for a complaint from the Siamese Minister was only one of the circumstances which indicated the seriousness with which the affair was regarded. It was stated that he intended to go thoroughly into the matter of immunity as affected by the prohibition laws, with a view to taking measures which would make a repetition of the Siamese incident impossible.

This is not the first instance in which the State Department has been embarrassed by the failure or refusal of policemen and enforcement agents to recognize the immunity which surrounds the personnel and property of the diplomatic corps, but it was a singularly flagrant case.

Details of Case.
Acting upon the advice of the State Department, Siamese officials employed a Baltimore trucking firm to haul the liquor to Washington. Luang Chara, a Legation attaché, rode on the truck. He carried documents identifying him and attesting the immunity of supply. Traveling on the sea ice, where it might be possible to obtain seals and penguins, would be extremely hazardous because from time to time throughout the year the sea ice breaks free from the land fast ice and drifts away, continuing possibly into the open ocean and disappearing.

Because of these conditions, we will have to pay particular attention to our engines and equipment on the return there. We expect to start south soon after Sept. 1 this year. We will be provided with the best portable radio apparatus available, and with the few improve-

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in the cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight denunciations of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely trifling news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

That Questionnaire.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
JUST a word in defense of the students at Missouri U.

If the present Missouri Legislature wants to take the appropriation for Missouri U. because some faculty members and students are interested enough in family life, the basis of our civilization, to try to determine the attitude of the younger generation toward family life, why we deserve to be called "backwoods."

Tennessee had its Scopes trial, Arkansas imprisoned her evolution teacher; I suppose it's Missouri's time to show that we are not to be "beaten" by our neighbors. Whipping posts and the "ex cathedra" attitude go hand in hand. The will of the people is the supreme law. If we are afraid to know what is being thought—not taught, at Missouri U., why let's have no more questionnaires. Let the blind lead the blind and all go jump in the lake.

In closing, may I be allowed to doubt the sincerity of a newspaper which will give streamer heads and stenographic detail to the trial of Good Time Charlie's murderer and at the same time condemn editorially the Missouri questionnaire.

CHARLES W. SAYLOR.

The Y Employment Bureau.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I WONDER if all the employers in St. Louis know that they can employ young men and boys through the Y. M. C. A. Employment Bureau without cost either to employer or employee? It indeed is a pleasure to know that there is, at least one employment bureau in the city that does not harbor an ulterior motive behind a mask of benevolence.

GRATITUDE.

Keep the Whelpley Collection.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WE have read in this column the warning from Dr. Pallou that we may lose the famous Whelpley collection of Indian archeology, pronounced by the curator of the Missouri Historical Society "the finest private collection in the world." This statement was made last week in the Post-Dispatch explaining why that society could not buy the collection.

The Missouri Historical Society, having no funds for the purpose, being itself dependent on voluntary contributions from its members, there then remains two alternatives: The Municipal Art Museum, which is tax-supported and, presumably, has funds for the acquisition of art objects. Surely this collection is an important as an old master, and will cost our city much less.

The second alternative involves the paying of an "angel" or a "patron saint," as Dr. Pallou suggests, but these angelic beings are so much called upon that we hesitate to impose even one more burden. Then comes the former hope of the unpopular popular subscription. Twenty-five thousand dollars will retain for St. Louis a collection of 40,000 items of Indian archeology valued at 10 times the price.

Who'll start it?

(MRS.) P. A. HARRIS.

My Reverses Himself.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
"CONSISTENCY, thou art a jewel." Hon. Henry W. Kiel gave the public, to use the words of the late lamented Al (late here is used as a figure of speech) the low down on Vice, and I for one gave it some weight and voted for Henry.

Now I read that Henry has changed his opinion and intends to deliver a speech for Vice, which is hardly consistency on his part.

What can a poor voter do, or how can he be guided?

I have solved the problem as far as I am concerned, and that is to vote for Larry McDaniel, who at least is straightforward and consistent.

E. A. SCHULZ.

Oppose Daylight Saving.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
YOUR editorial on daylight saving: Why do you favor it? Just because a few office workers want to play golf or tennis, they are anxious to have this daylight saving plan go through. I do hope that the Aldermen will have good sense and refuse to act on this.

JOSEPH RUZICKA.

What Happened to G. B. S.?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
DID you notice what happened to Bernard Shaw out on Grand boulevard? After one or two days, his name was left out of the advertising of the house which ran his harmless, informal little talking movie. Maybe they even stopped running the film before the week was over, but I saw him on Monday, and thank you.

Did other appreciators of the man and his ideas leave the theater despairing of man's ultimate usefulness to the life force? I wonder? His film left the audience colder than an old boiled potato; and they seemed to wonder why that old man should be photographed talking about himself.

And for every one educated by the militant intelligence typified by Shaw, a thousand are educated on such unmitigated rot as "Felix." Well, may Saint Joan ask: How long, O Lord, how long?

SHAVIAN.

MOBBING THE COURTS.

The Anti-Saloon League is preparing plans for an enforcement drive against the big cities. Whatever is needed in the way of additional money, increased enforcement staffs and more Judges will be provided, but the feature of the attack on which the league apparently places special reliance is the presence of women in every courtroom where a prohibition case is on trial.

Dr. McBride evidently feels that an explanation of this tactic should be offered. So he graciously says that it is not intended to "antagonize the courts or to be unfriendly or critical, but to let the Judge see that the women are present and following the administration of justice as he (the Judge) dispenses it." That is, of course, Dr. McBride's subtle way of saying that the women will be on hand to see that the Judge does his duty. For, warming up to his subject, he declares that "the time when Judges can make a laughing stock of the law by imposing small fines and other utterly inadequate sentences upon violators is now passing. Soon it will have passed entirely."

That is straight talk which nobody can misunderstand. It is a threat to the Judges that if they do not inflict the maximum legal punishment on violators of the dry law the Anti-Saloon League will attend to them in due time.

Here is an unequivocal declaration that the dry law is not to be administered by the courts but by the Anti-Saloon League. In short, legal justice is to be supplanted by league justice.

Very well. It may be submitted, however, that if the Anti-Saloon League may send its women into the courtroom to terrorize Judges the forces opposed to prohibition may send their women into the courtroom to coerce the Judges to comply with their prejudices. So it will be mob versus mob, with the Goddess of Justice toppled from her pedestal and His Majesty the Law groveling in the dust.

Such a scene may be contemplated where the Judge is craven enough to surrender to the mob. There may be Judges of that stripe. But there are Judges of sterner stuff, and they are in the vast majority. There are Judges with such respect for their office and such little concern for their personal fortune that they would not tolerate the presence of either men or women in their court on any mission of censorship or coercion. There are Judges who would send such agents of terrorism to jail for contempt of court, and their action would have the sanction of law, the seal of justice and the support of intelligent public opinion.

The Anti-Saloon League's latest campaign is a mixture of anarchy and madness.

BRINGING NATURAL GAS TO ST. LOUIS.

The Monroe and Richland gas fields of Louisiana are some 450 miles from St. Louis, but this city nevertheless offers the nearest market to the great fuel supply of that region. Operating under a permit just granted by the city, the Mississippi Fuel Corporation will bring to St. Louis industries approximately 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

Twenty miles apart, the Monroe and Richland fields constitute one of the largest natural gas reservoirs ever discovered. The fuel will be brought here through a 22-inch pipe line. There will be five pumping stations en route, and the total investment will be about $30,000,000. The project is one which has the support of the St. Louis Industrial Club. It adds materially to the fuel advantages of St. Louis as an industrial center.

Natural gas in such quantities as it occurs in Louisiana requires an industrial market, and this is why the pipe line is being laid to St. Louis. This city is the nearest market where industries are sufficiently big and numerous to make such an operation profitable. It is the expectation of the Mississippi Fuel Corporation that it will be able to supply a considerable part of the fuel required by industry upon both sides of the river at St. Louis. The supply of gas is considered sufficient to hold out indefinitely. The company will hardly invade the domestic field, already occupied by the Laclede Gas Light Co. It is for this reason not asking a franchise.

THESE DAYS OF EINSTEIN.

Perhaps this is a sordid age in which nothing counts but money. A lot of people have seemingly made a profession of telling us that very thing—telling it in impudence, or profanity, or in melancholy croakings as they sit disconsolate but superior on the side lines. Well, there's Prof. Einstein. We have read in the papers how, on his fiftieth birthday, the great mathematician fled from Berlin to escape an ovation. We have read, too, that he will be informed, on his return, that a house has been given to him, rent free, for the rest of his life. Congratulatory messages have poured in on him from the illustrious of the whole world. There is the item of a package of tobacco, addressed in a labored hand, which will be the most cherished present of the occasion, say those who know the man.

In the good old days, which so many of our intellectuals are forever lamenting, they sent their poets to prison for debt and speeded their prophets to eternity with fire, or sword, or hempen rope. But Einstein, who spends half a dozen years on a few pages of formulae which only a handful can understand, enjoys a universal esteem. There ought to be a wandering minstrel somewhere to sing a stave of song to this age of gold which in a good many ways is truly a golden age.

The way the country is going it will not be long until any girl can hope to be President.

THE MONARCH OF ROMANCE.

Douglas Fairbanks may not be at the top of his stride in "The Man in the Iron Mask," but he is still the swashbuckler incarnate; he still gets a lusty joy out of his impossible feats of derring-do and oldsters as well as youngsters share the thrill. But there are things in the galloping pages of Dumas beyond the art or artifice of the screen. That Frenchman must reign forever the Monarch of Romance. To know the magic of him one must read him. The most touching tribute to Dumas that we know of may be found in Andrew Lang's charming "Letters to Dead Authors." The battling and the mystery of Dumas' immortalized the English writer in his gray years even as in the stolen idling of his adolescence. That is a confession any might sincerely make. Who of us today can pick up one of those familiar volumes without at once losing himself completely in the gallantry and splendor and prodigious recklessness of those dashing devil-may-care whom first we met in the lost land of youth? If the boys and girls now in their teens are not reading Dumas they are missing a real glory.

THE FREE BRIDGE'S FINAL TEST.

That bugaboo of a terminal monopoly, which still haunts various groups of citizens, is in danger of destruction.

The municipal bridge was planned and constructed to break the monopoly of the St. Louis Terminal Railroad Association, which then existed. Afterwards the monopoly was broken by the suit brought at the instance of the Post-Dispatch in the United States Supreme Court, which ordered the Terminal to admit all railroads to the use of its facilities on equal terms. No profit for service was permitted the Terminal, and its charges were based upon cost of service and necessary improvements.

The city is now finishing the free approach for the use of the Alton & Southern and the Manufacturers' Railway at the expense of the people. The object of the approach is to break the alleged monopoly and reduce charges to shippers. As the Post-Dispatch stated when the money was appropriated to build the southern approach, the reduction of charges to shippers would be the test of its value. Last year the Terminal Association reduced its charges from $4.15 to $3.15. Now the Alton & Southern, one of the beneficiaries of the opening of the bridge and the building of the approach, appeals to the Interstate Commerce Commission to permit it to retain the charge of $4.15, because it says it cannot afford to meet the Terminal's reduced charge.

Has the city expended $1,500,000 on the free approach to the bridge for the purpose of increasing instead of reducing charges to shippers? If it has, the money was ill spent. That is the final test.

A JUDICIAL CONSTITUTIONALIST.

In the brief comment on the death of Judge Paul A. Gayer of the Court of Criminal Correction, the Post-Dispatch touched upon the human understanding with which Judge Gayer interpreted and applied the law in the cases which came before his court. There was another side of Judge Gayer's service in the court which was of fully as much importance. He was a staunch defender of the constitutional rights of citizens. Officers of the law who abused their powers and made wholesale raids, arrests or searches without warrant and without proper information, or who maltreated or abused citizens, had short shrift in his court.

When the Post-Dispatch protested against the searches, arrests and raids made by the police on telephone information and without a warrant, Judge Gayer stood by the Constitution. He refused to permit law officers to run over human rights and constitutional rights. His rulings were a wholesome lesson in fundamental principles.

Judge Gayer's record in his court not only had the endorsement of the Bar Association but the endorsement of the people of St. Louis, who elected him with an exceptionally large vote. St. Louis will be fortunate if it gets another Judge of his type in the Court of Criminal Correction.

ANOTHER GREAT MANHUNTER.

Let the Sheriff of Hamilton County, Nebraska, be cited on that same honor roll whereon appear the stirring names of Sherlock Holmes, Arsene Lupin, Monsieur Lecoq and Craig Kennedy. The honor of this set of superb sleuths will not be lessened in the nation of the Nebraska sheriff's name.

More than forty burglaries were committed in Hamilton and adjacent York County in January and February. Did the desperate leave fingerprints? Ah, no, he was too clever for that. But the sharp eye of the Sheriff spied, on investigating the scene of one of the burglaries, a plug of tobacco that had been left behind. In that plug was the imprint of human teeth. A number of suspects were rounded up. They were put in jail at Aurora, county seat of Hamilton County. The Sheriff casually dropped in for a game of cards, with the prisoners. He passed around his plug of tobacco. The tooth marks of Leon Hudson corresponded with the tooth marks of that other plug! Confronted with such evidence, Hudson confessed his guilt. We admit that Philo had also discovered the culprit in "The Canary Murder Case" by a game of cards. But that does not dim the Sheriff's glory. The Sheriff of Hamilton County has improved on the great Bertillon.

PROF. FISHER AND THE TARIFF.

In the heat of a presidential campaign farmers did not seem to be impressed by the argument that to increase tariffs upon agricultural products was hardly so practicable a means of farm relief as to decrease tariffs upon manufactured articles that the farmer buys.

Perhaps it will be more effective to have Prof. Irving Fisher, the eminent economist, say the same thing now. "It would," he says, "hurt the farmers to overlord the tariff bill during deliberations aimed at giving them a more equal chance with industrialists. It would defeat the object of the special session. If duties were imposed that would permit the placing of higher prices on the manufactured goods that farmers have to buy. Were it politically feasible, one of the best measures for farm relief would be a reduction of the tariff on such articles."

This is rendered impossible by the situation. The industrialist has a much greater claim upon Mr. Hoover than the farmer has. The margin upon which Mr. Hoover can therefore operate in his plan of helping the farmer by means of the tariff is narrow indeed. We are, as Prof. Fisher says, disposing more and more to mass production. Our export surplus last year was worth $1,039,000,000, or $347,000,000 more than our exported surplus in 1913. To expand our foreign trade we must be tender of the countries which are heavy buyers of American goods. We cannot lift the tariff barrier against their products beyond a point and retain their business. Canada, for instance, is our largest foreign customer. Canada is an agricultural country. If we bar her agricultural products from our markets she will bar our manufactured products from her markets. Our export business with France declined $35,000,000 last year. The French are quick to hint at what may happen in the event of a tariff war.

Prof. Fisher leaves his readers to infer that in the fervor of the presidential race Mr. Hoover ventured upon very thin ice in this matter of farm relief and the tariff. That is also our impression, and it will surprise us very much if the farmers do not find that even with the best intentions their interests and those of the industrialists are irreconcilable.

The redoubtable F. Happy Day, who was one of Mr. Kiel's strategists, is now supporting Mr. McDaniel. His obvious exclamation when the primary returns came in was, "Good night!"

Up From the Harem

Since 1916, Turkish women have been emerging from bondage; polygamy is still extensively practiced in the rural districts, where women are used as beasts of burden, but it is going out in the cities; formerly women were not permitted to go out with their husbands, now they may even dance the Charleston in public.

RAYMOND LECOSTE in L'Echo de Paris.
(Reprinted from The Milwaukee Journal.)

I WAS having tea, that pink spearmint flavored Persian tea, in the tepid salon of a pretty frame house at Nishan-Tach on the Bosphorus, sitting amongst four young women. They were Turkish women, not from cosmopolitan and Europeanized Magadan, the Samaritan woman, and the woman who had betrayed her husband? The Islam, on the contrary, is a religion for men. The prophet assigns us a place in Paradise, yes; but in the mosque he places us in a hidden corner. We cannot attend the daily first and fourth prayer nor the Friday prayers. The men had big and numerous monasteries; but we never had any convent."

Pearl-Grain intervened: "I don't think that we should render our religion responsible for our fate. The prophet did not feel any contempt for our sex. Does not entire Islam revere the holy memory of Aicha, Kadidja, and Fatma? What did Mohammed say? 'The Paradise is at the feet of the mothers.' Marriage and motherhood were honored by him above everything else."

At this moment, one of the husbands, my friend H—, who had listened a little, decided to get into the debate: "We must render justice to Islam. It meant real progress compared to the customs which it replaced. It drew up restraining rules for polygamy. The prophet said: 'Beware of being unjust with your wives. Marry only two, marry only three or four. If you can't treat them all fairly, marry only one.'"

"Remember also that the harem is not a Turkish invention. The Seldjucks knew nothing about it. It is a city custom and was practiced in middle classes in Byzantium, where the Turks borrowed it after their conquest of Constantinople. It is really the old 'synecism' of the Greeks. Personally I am a convinced believer in monogamy." Here Pearl-Grain thanked him with a smile. "Quite apart from physiological and climatic reasons, I might say that there were historical reasons for polygamy. The aim was to propagate the Islam and to favor an increase of birth rates so as to make up for the many who had died of epidemics and in warfare. Was it not better, moreover, for a woman to have three rivals she knew than to have a thousand and three unknown ones? Finally, isn't polygamy preferable to the unfortunate effects of involuntary solitude to which nearly 4,000,000 spinsters are condemned in England?"

"I've lived in England and I assure you that nobody would dream of marrying those girls."

"To get back to the old regime in Turkey. People forget too often that except for the inconvenience of separating both sexes completely in public life, Turkish women used to have privileges which the European women did not have and which Turkish women no longer have under the new regulations adopted from the Swiss civil code. The Turkish girl was of age at 12; she was allowed to marry without the consent of her parents, to be guardian of her children, to own and manage her property without having her husband interfere. The great inequality was in matters of divorce. Divorce was not left to the initiative of the women, though the latter could found means to provoke it. The husband was allowed to marry an infidel girl (Mahammed himself married a Christian, Maria), but a woman was not allowed to wed anyone who was not a Mohammedan. "Of course, the paternal authority was so strong that a young girl did not dare to marry without the consent of her father. Wasn't that so, in Europe not many generations ago? But the prophet did admit that the consent of the father, Fatma, before having her marriage was allowed to stay with neighbors and appeal to the Judge."

"How do men like the reform?" "It will take some time before we can persuade our peasants in Anatolia to get accustomed to the Swiss civil code. By the way, we went a bit too fast. Not by the way, that the girls did not dare to marry without the consent of their father. He simply advised them to. Nevertheless, he asked the fee and wants us to wear him. Circular letters were sent out asking husbands to give up the veil."

"Well, your glorious ghazi was wrong in this matter. Nothing can be more becoming for women than the light shadow of a veil which makes the complexion look more beautiful and makes the eyes seem larger and more ardent, especially when the eyelids are blackened with 'surme.'"

When I left my friends I had more confidence in the future of Turkey. These fine, patriotic women are so cultured and so virtuous. The Turkish women before the war had remarkable poets and writers. But today they have become women, too—Halide Edin Hanem, the president of the Union of Turkish Women, and others like Mrs. Adnan Bey, who lives in exile. Most of the young Turkish women whose education delighted me so much speak French, English and German perfectly.

WASHINGTON, March 11

LET prohibition come up for discussion in Congress or even be remotely suggested and it is a safe bet that at least one member will start wincing. In the last days of the seventeenth session, Representative Tom McKown of Oklahoma was pushing for action on legislative legislation for American vessels. He had been speaking at length and with eloquence of the necessity for such legislation when Fred Purnell of Indiana arose and with studied seriousness asked:

"Will the gentleman from Oklahoma yield?" McKown did and Purnell inquired: "Will the gentleman from Oklahoma tell me how this bill will affect prohibition?" McKown looked baffled and replied: "I did not understand it had anything to do with prohibition."

"But," Purnell continued, "are you not trying to fix the headline for schooners?" McKown did and Purnell inquired: "Will the gentleman from Oklahoma tell me how this bill will affect prohibition?" McKown looked baffled and replied: "I did not understand it had anything to do with prohibition."

LARGE parts of the world are still ruled by military dictators, hereditary despots and self-enriching officials, an important part of whose armament is the use of censorship. In other parts of the world, news-getting and news circulation have become highly developed through the medium of the daily press. Thus, when the highly trained news getter, in the pursuit of his calling, enters the realm of the censor, there are bound to be collisions. George Seldes, on the foreign staff of the Chicago Tribune from 1918 until recently, was the center of many such collisions in the 37 countries he has visited, and this book is his record of some of the experiences he has had.

The life of the foreign correspondent encompasses some amazing experiences and some quick changes of scene. The setting of Seldes' book changes from the World War front to Italy, from Russia to the French war in Syria against the Druses, to Mexico, Rumania, revolution in Vienna and intrigue in Jugoslavia. Seldes' explanation by the Fascists became a diplomatic incident, and in this volume he tells how it happened. Exponents of political philosophy's other extreme also found it best to rid themselves of this enterprising reporter, and Seldes was expelled by the Soviet.

Among the outstanding items in a book packed with interesting stories are Seldes' interviews with eminent figures in the world's news. Among them are his meeting with Hindenburg just after the armistice, his interview with Admiral Scheer on the battle of Jutland and the war at sea, and his call on Mussolini.

The Italian Premier he characterizes briefly as "an actor-actor extraordinary, with a country for a stage, a great powerful histrionic ego, swaying an audience of millions, confounding the world by his theatrical cleverness." A little farther along, quoting Mussolini's phrase about the "star of my destiny," he mentions the Napoleonic pose of the dictator: "He is in fact Napoleon—Napoleon Bonaparte stripped of his Concordat, his Constitution, his great Napoleonic Code and the Napoleonic victories."

And here is his description of the modern Napoleon on the platform:

"He began coldly, in a voice neither ardent and unimpeded, I had never heard an Italian orator so restrained. Then he changed, became soft and warm, added grace and flames in his eyes. The audience moved with his words. Suddenly he lowered his voice to a heavy whisper and the silence among the listeners became absolute."

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, so matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and itching of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be soft, shiny, lustrous, glossy and long and look and feel a hundred times better than it ever did.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

Reporting World News

YOU CAN'T PRINT THAT! By George Seldes. (Payson & Clarke.)

LARGE parts of the world are ruled by military dictators, hereditary despots and self-seeking officials, an important part of whose armament is the use of censorship. In other parts of the world, news-getting and news-circulating have become highly devalued through the medium of the daily press. Thus, when the highly trained news getter, in the pursuit of his calling, enters the realm of the censor, there are bound to be clashes. George Seldes, on the foreign staff of the Chicago Tribune from 1915 until recently, was the center of many such conflicts in the 27 countries he has visited, and this book is his record of some of the experiences he has had.

The life of the foreign correspondent encompasses some amazing experiences and some quick changes of scene. The setting of World War front to Italy, from Russia to the French war in Syria against the Druses, to Mexico, Rumania, revolution in Vienna and intrigue in Jugo-Slavia. Seldes' exposure by the Fascists became a diplomatic incident, and in this volume he tells how it happened. Exponents of political philosophy of other extreme also found it best to rid themselves of this enterprising reporter, and Seldes was expelled by the Soviet.

Among the outstanding items in a book packed with interesting stories are Seldes' interviews with eminent figures in the world's news. Among them are his meeting with Hindenburg just after the armistice, his interview with Admiral Scher on the battle of Jutland and the war at sea, and his call on Mussolini.

The Italian Premier he characterizes briefly as "an actor—actor extraordinary, with a country for a stage, a great powerful histrionic ego, a great audience of millions, confounding the world by his theatrical cleverness." A little further along, quoting Mussolini's phrase about the "star of my destiny," he mentions the Napoleonic pose of the dictator. "He is in fact Napoleon—Napoleon Bonaparte stripped of his Concordat, his Constitution, his great Napoleonic Code and the Napoleonic victories."

And here is his description of the modern Napoleon on the platform: "He began coldly, in a voice northern and unimpassioned, I had never heard an Italian orator so restrained. Then he changed, became soft and warm, added gestures and flames in his eyes. The audience moved with him. He held them. Suddenly he lowered his voice to a heavy whisper and the silence among the listeners became more intense. The whisper sank lower and the listeners strained breathlessly to hear. Then Mussolini exploded with thunder and fire, and the mob—for it was no more than a mob—rose to its feet and shouted. Immediately Mussolini became cold and Nordic and restrained again and swept the mob into the ether, exhausted."

On the other hand, Seldes met Lenin, "with a thick, throaty, wet voice . . . always smiling, his face never hard." Lenin made no use of bombast, had no magnetism, spoke plainly and gave only a straightforward account in his speech to a gathering from all over Russia. Dressed in his cheap, ill-fitting military uniform, part wool, mostly cotton, Lenin met the correspondents after his address and held them at arm's length by speaking freely but ironically and playfully on all "touchy" subjects.

There is an absorbing chapter on Mexico, where documents made to order were offered to Seldes the evening after his arrival by the man who furnished those later bought and paid for by Mr. Hearst. Seldes has plenty to say of the prejudice against Mexico and Mexicans he found among his countrymen sojourning there.

Real battles and real sieges are described in his account of the French war in Syria. Seeking for his reason a human interest story in the Foreign Legion on duty there, Seldes met a youth from Memphis who seemed to relish the thrilling experiences he was finding in the land of the Druses. A few days later Seldes learned of his horror that the young American was to be executed for desertion. The move started then and there by Seldes to save the life of Gilbert Clark, made front page copy for weeks. Pressure brought on the President of France, and the legionnaire was allowed to pay for his action in a moment of weakness by 13 months of hard labor instead of with his life.

Not all of the book is narrative; there are many passages describing social and economic conditions as the author found them in the countries he has visited. All through runs the account of Seldes' continual battles with the censor to send out to his readers the news he was there to get. These things he tries to explain why the American press is unable to tell all the truth about conditions in Europe.

Seldes' view of affairs on the continent is far from optimistic. "Almost half of Europe today is governed by violence and terrorism," he says. "Most correspondents work honestly, in his opinion, but 'against government' systems the journalist can do little." Propaganda surrounds him and the censor is ever present to mutilate his writings or to expel the correspondent from the country should he prove stubborn. Seldes has cast a brilliant light on the present conditions hampering the dissemination of truth. FERD GOTTLEB.

DANDRUFF

A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This does not mean to wash it off with soap and water, but to apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop. Fluffy, lustreless, glossy, silky and times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces in all you will need. This simple remedy is sure.

GUEST CONDUCTOR PLAN TO BE USED AGAIN NEXT YEAR

Symphony Society Executive Committee Announces Arrangements for Fiftieth Season.

The policy of engaging guest conductors for the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, which has been followed in the last two years, will be continued in 1929-1930, which will be the orchestra's fiftieth season. This was announced by the Symphony Society's Executive Committee, at a tea given by the Women's Committee of the organization, at Hotel Jefferson this afternoon.

Two of the guest conductors for next season will be E. Fernandez Arbos, conductor of the Royal Symphony Orchestra of Madrid, recently in charge of the orchestra here, and Eugene Goossens, the present guest conductor.

Arbos will begin the preparation of the St. Louis orchestra Oct. 21. He will remain here until Dec. 22. Between the two, according to a report prepared by L. Warrington Baldwin, president of the Symphony Society, arrangements for direction of the orchestra have not been made. Seven pairs of conductors are scheduled for this period, and the Executive Committee, Baldwin says, has found great difficulty in procuring leadership of "equal distinction and equal authority" to that of Arbos and Goossens.

"Names of possible conductors will readily occur to anyone," Baldwin says. "But outstanding figures are in demand elsewhere as well as here. Some have positions which will not permit of a leave of absence. Some cannot accept an invitation for the length of time we believe is best for the development of our own orchestra. Some will not undertake a journey across the seas. Still others, because of age or health, cannot be induced to accept our invitation."

"Obviously it would be unwise to discuss possible selections until the conductors are under contract. But negotiations are under way, and it is to be hoped that by the time the last concert of the present season is given, April 5 and again, the full complement of conductors for the fiftieth season may be announced."

There will be more soloists next year than have been engaged during the present season, it is announced. Singers engaged thus far are Maria Olkewski, contralto of the Vienna Opera Co., now with the Chicago Civic Opera, and Florence Austral, dramatic soprano, specially engaged for a Wagnerian concert. The pianists engaged are Rudolph Ganz, formerly conductor of the St. Louis orchestra; Alfred Cortot, French pianist, and Vladimir Horowitz. The violinists will include Mischa Elman, Yelky d'Aranyi, a young Hungarian, and Nathan Milstein, Russian. Louis Bailly, violinist, will be another soloist. Sylvain Noack, concert master, and Max Steinmetz, solo violinist of the orchestra, will appear on a joint program, playing the Brahms double concerto for violin and violoncello. Other soloists are to be announced.

Crana's sketches, done in pencil, portray chiefly California scenes. Wright's monotypes are largely of a symbolic type. Wright is a business man who took up art after middle age, without training. The exhibit is open to the public from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily, except Sunday.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 19.

THE noon hour downtown is a daily feat. Even wide streets are filled with sidewalk overflow and such narrow thoroughfares as Nassau are almost impassable. It is the brief relaxation for thousands of office workers and the spirit is distinctly Mardi Gras.

There are casual flirtations, glibly making, hastily organized quartets, sidewalk for-trots and other hoop-do-doo indulged with a reckless happy abandon. One of the big yearly events is the day all straw hats are smashed. Hawkers sell everything from balloons to long-legged dolls daily.

Many couples go to the cafeterias which offer music and dancing and prize cups to customers. The errand and messenger boys of Broad and Wall streets have innumerable ingenious hide and seek games they play among the crowds.

St. Paul and Trinity churches, even on chilliest days, have lunches who make spreads on the decaying flat tombstones. And hand-dancing lovers stroll through the ivy-clad paths whispering the oldest story among crypts of the forgotten dead.

An eager zest for excitement rears out of every building craning to see the parade of the Charleston contests, harmonica bands and such. On the wind-swept benches of Battery Park are sentimental secretaries and stenographers reading poetry and volumes of romance.

Among noon hour free entertainments are street fiddlers, soap box orators, hurdy gurdies, fortune tellers, advertising clowns on high stilts, magicians and window demonstrators. And on almost every corner is an argument. With a tolerant cool standing by.

Lower Fifth avenue, dubbed Bolshevik boulevard, is the parade ground for garment workers in neighboring lofts.

Newspapers screech midday Yiddish extras. Future Jetties orate. Push carts offer hot potatoes on a stick, parboiled seeds and an infinite variety of penny hot and cold drinks.

Mr. Gutweiler was Deputy Register for eight years until 1909, when he became connected with the William Barr Dry Goods Co. Later he became a proprietor of the Monroe Clothing Shop, retiring 19 years ago because of poor health. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Jensen, Mrs. L. F. Krieteimer and Mrs. Roland Hartnagel. Funeral services will be held Thursday at 1:45 p. m. at an undertaking establishment at 2223 St. Louis avenue, with burial in St. Peter's Cemetery.

IT takes those ladies to whom you hand your cards at outer gates of offices to take out the tuck. Somehow I had a concealed notion my name might be known at least a little in a certain haughty newspaper shop. Today I announced politely and so I thought rather impressively: "I am O. O. McIntyre."

"Well," she half sighed, scarcely looking up from her copy of The Graphic, "I can't help that."

Why Ivanhoe Mayonnaise is so Rich and Creamy!

Your average mayonnaise recipe calls for so much egg, oil, vinegar, mustard, and spices. The Ivanhoe recipe calls for more eggs than the average recipe—this makes it richer!

Your average recipe calls for continued beating "til thoroughly mixed". The Ivanhoe recipe calls for beating the mixture faster than any human hand can do it—this makes it creamier!

All the ingredients used in Ivanhoe are the highest quality—the oil is pure oil, the eggs are fresh, and it retains all this freshness and purity—good reasons why Ivanhoe is way above the average mayonnaise.

This difference is that inimitable something that you appreciate in every taste of Ivanhoe—in salads, or sandwiches, or in whatever form you use it.

Order a pint for now! You will want to serve it often. For as soon as "the folks" taste it, they'll insist on having it every day of the week. All "Better Grocers" have Ivanhoe.

HOUSE LOOTED OF PLUMBING

Charles Simcox, 628 North Twenty-fifth street, East St. Louis, reported to police that for the second time in 10 days newly installed plumbing had been torn out of buildings he is constructing. Sunday night damage of $100 was caused to the plumbing of a residence at 808 North Thirty-ninth street, East St. Louis. Plumbing in a residence at 1300 North Forty-first street, East St. Louis, was torn out before. Simcox blamed two disgruntled workmen whom he discharged last month.

himself and the cargo. Nevertheless, the truck was stopped near the legation by Policeman Stottle. Chara's papers were ignored. The truck was ordered driven to a police station, the driver and his helper were booked on charges of transporting liquor, and Chara was kept at the station two hours until State Department officials obtained his release.

Dry Agent Basil Quinn subsequently moved to confiscate the truck, and caused the truckmen, Gilbert Witt and Roy Miller, to be held for police court in $500 bail each. Since the Legation officials had guaranteed the truck company against any form of official molestation, the Siamese Government now faces the possibility of being required to pay for the truck and reimburse the fines of the truckmen.

Aside from the fact that the Legation officials had obtained all the papers prescribed by the State Department and had complied with all the formalities, the situation is made doubly embarrassing by the circumstances that the State Department had announced, only the day before, that it would henceforth be unnecessary for a foreign attaché to accompany trucks transporting diplomatic liquor. Chara accompanied it as an added precaution, following the precedent set by another Legation a few days earlier.

There is an ancient statute, dating almost from the establishment of this Government, which provides that all representatives of foreign governments, and their goods and chattels, shall be immune from all writs and legal processes, and that any peace officer guilty of violating this immunity "shall be deemed a violator of the laws of nations and a disturber of the public repose, and shall be imprisoned for not more than three years and fined at the discretion of the court."

As a matter of course, it will be the duty of Secretary Kellogg to apologize to the Siamese Minister on behalf of the United States Government. Because of his prompt action, Siamese officials were not disposed to press the matter. But other members of the diplomatic corps, it was learned last night, are urging them to make an example of the case. Already outraged by the spectacle of diplomatic attaches being required to escort whisky trucks through the streets, they are determined to have a showdown, and they would prefer to have it at once.

State Department officials admitted privately that it was fortunate that Siam was the country involved, instead of one of the great powers. While the principle is exactly the same, the consequences of the publicity in the country affected will not be what they would have been had an attaché of the British, French or Japanese Embassies been arrested and his load seized.

However, the possibility that one of the great powers may be involved by just such an incident, is one reason for the determination of the foreign corps and the State Department to take decisive action now. They realize that one irresponsible policeman or dry agent could easily perpetrate an act which would have grave international results. To visualize this, it is only necessary to picture what would happen if a shot were fired at a truck ridden by a foreign attaché.

During the last two sessions of Congress Senator Cole Blaise of South Carolina made several speeches in the Senate attacking the custom of diplomatic immunity, as practiced under the Volstead act. The explanation that official representatives of the United States enjoy precisely the same immunity in foreign countries failed to impress him. He demanded that prohibition be enforced against all Embassies and Legations in Washington, and his attacks created a very unpleasant impression among the foreign corps here.

It was reported last night that the Siamese officials were being urged by some of their colleagues to prosecute Policeman Stottle and Dry Agent Quinn under the immunity statute. Others were urging that a general meeting of the diplomatic corps be called by Sir Kame Howard, British Ambassador and dean of the foreign representatives, but he was said to feel that the colony could well await the outcome of Secretary Kellogg's investigation.

It was generally agreed, however, that the time was ripe for some form of action which would convey to all peace officers that American prohibition does not extend to the representatives of foreign governments, and that further attempts to extend it might provoke serious consequences.

CHILDREN need yeast.

It builds them up, gives them appetite and good digestion and helps them get full value from their food. But ordinary baking yeast is not suitable for the reason that it ferments and causes gas. Give children Yeast Foam Tablets. Pure whole yeast with nothing added. So prepared that it can not ferment or cause gas. A fetching taste that makes most people chew the tablets like candy.

As to purity and potency, please remember that this yeast is used and recognized as the standard for vitamin studies by the leading universities of the nation and by the U. S. Government. This is your guarantee.

PROTECTION

WHERE the teeth meet the gums—that is The Danger Line. At this line there are countless tiny crevices, ideal spots for the formation of the acids that cause tooth decay and gum irritations.

Squibb's Dental Cream brings real protection because it fills those crevices with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia—the best antacid known. The Milk of Magnesia not only neutralizes the acids at The Danger Line, but remains to bring protection for a long time after.

Squibb's Dental Cream keeps the mouth healthy, leaves it cool and wonderfully clean. 40c a large tube.

POLICEMAN SLAIN
GANGSTERS' FIGHT

In Car With One Leader
 When Shot by Sergeant
 Who Says He Thought Combat Was Holdup.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 19.—In a gang feud over control of liquor supply business a policeman riding in the car of a Brooklyn gang leader was killed early today. The leader engaged in a pistol fight with members of a rival gang.

Patrolman Daniel Maloney, 28 years old, died on the way to Norwegian Hospital with a bullet near his heart. Thomas Connell, 33, who police said was a friend of Maloney's, was shot in the leg. Harold Richard, 41, was shot in the shoulder.

Connell, Richard and Charles Higgins, 28, said by police to be the leader of the other gang, who was captured near the scene of the shooting, were held for questioning.

Police Sgt. Charles McGarty reported to his superiors that he shot Maloney and Connell when he came upon the fight and, thinking it was a holdup, opened fire. After the shooting police found six pistols in the street and two were found on the body of Maloney, one of them his service weapon.

Detectives said they learned that Maloney, who was off duty for the day, had spent it with Connell.

The policeman and Connell, the detective said, met Higgins and two companions in a saloon. Later the two parties drove to the Owl's Head Tavern, Bay Ridge. It was outside this place that the shooting occurred.

Police said a feud of several years' standing had existed between Higgins and Connell over control of the liquor trade in the Bay Ridge district.

Higgins has been arrested several times on homicide and firearm-carrying charges, but there is no record of his ever having been convicted.

The three who were held for questioning all professed to know nothing of the shooting. Higgins, who was captured as he was running from the scene, said he was merely seeking shelter from the bullets. Connell said he and Maloney were talking when three men drove up and opened fire on them.

OSSING DISSOLVES WRIT MIX

Temporary Order Had Been Issued Against Building Garage as Violation of Zoning Ordinance.

An injunction suit to restrain Sam Koplar from erecting a garage in the rear of the Branscome Apartment Hotel, 5370 Pershing avenue, which he owns, was dismissed without comment today by Circuit Judge Ossing. The suit was filed last October by the Gatesworth Investment Co. and the Portland Garage Co., and charged that the erection of the garage would be a violation of the zoning ordinance.

When the suit was filed a temporary restraining order was granted by George E. Mix, then a Circuit Judge, and a resident of the Gatesworth Hotel, at 245 Union boulevard. Nevertheless construction of the garage was started and the building now is nearing completion.

MAYOR MILLER URGES PASSAGE

Plends for Several Measures That "Would Make St. Louis Greatest City in Midwest."

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—Mayor Miller of St. Louis has asked members of the Legislature to pass several bills to benefit St. Louis. He made short talks in both House and Senate yesterday, urging the legislators to pass "four or five bills" which St. Louis is interested in.

"These measures will help make St. Louis the greatest city in the Middle West," he said. "One will help us clean up the river front down there. We want you to work for them."

The Mayor called on Gov. Caulfield, but declined to discuss his business with the chief executive.

LAYS BANK SHORTAGE TO SINCLAIR OIL LOSS

Former Sullivan, Ind., Man, Accused of $75,000 Deficit, Returns After Year.

By the Associated Press.

SULLIVAN, Ind., March 19.—James M. Lang, 73-year-old banker, sought since his disappearance a year ago last February, today was back in Sullivan to tell of irregularities in his accounts which resulted in the closing of the Citizens' Trust Co., of which he was president.

"My financial troubles, like most of the financial difficulties of Sullivan County residents, started with trading in Sinclair oil stock before the Teapot Dome deal," said Lang in a statement made to Jesse Bedwell, Sullivan County prosecutor, Sheriff Williams and ex-Mayor Richard Bailey. "Word was spread that Sinclair was due for a big deal and it seemed like every one who could bought the stock. It went down and they all lost. The strain of carrying the losses has been too heavy for the people and their finances. Insane speculations from which the most of them borrowed money for the speculations."

Several banks in Sullivan County have failed in the last few months. Lang's shortages are said to be approximately $18,000. This amount, it was said, would not have wrecked the Citizens' Trust Co., had not William Abbott made a claim for $50,000 in bonds. This claim, Lang asserted, was not valid as Abbott had received the bonds.

Lang said his son, Bayard, was one of those who lost money and that he tried to help him out. "That's how I first got into difficulties involving my bank and I am satisfied now that the difficulties of all the banks in the county that have encountered trouble can be traced, directly or indirectly, to this stock speculation," he said. "Bayard was one of those in the first pool that was formed to buy Sinclair. I never owned a share of that stock and never speculated in stocks or on the Board of Trade, but I loaned a lot of my own and the bank's money to those who did speculate and the banks have been carrying some debts caused by these speculations ever since."

In an authorized statement made in the presence of county officials, Citizens Trust stockholders and a newspaper reporter, Lang said he ran away from Sullivan because he was afraid of Abbott, who he said, was threatening him with Federal prosecution. He said he first went to Terre Haute and then to Atlanta, Ga. He visited several Southern cities and worked in a filling station at Charleston, S. C.

PLANS MADE FOR FIVE HOTELS

IN EASTERN OZARK REGION

Each to Cost at Least $40,000; to Serve as Resorts for Tourists and Vacationists.

Tentative plans for erection of five hotels in the Eastern Missouri Ozarks have been developed by the Missouri Ozarks Chamber of Commerce, which is conducting a $150,000 advertising campaign for that region.

The hotels, each of which will cost between $40,000 and $50,000, are to be financed and built by the Standard Hotel System, of which F. G. Moore of St. Louis is president. Present plans provide for the issuance of bonds to finance the project. There will be no stock sale.

Sites under discussion are at Ironton, Arcadia, Salem and Doniphan, all in the "Big Springs" country of the Ozarks. Lack of adequate hotel facilities in resorts has been regarded the principal obstacle to development of the Ozarks as a vacation playground, according to A. D. Sheppard, secretary of the Ozarks Chamber of Commerce.

SOUR TASTE AFTER EATING

Gas Pains and Other Indigestion Troubles suffered by Virginia Man.

"I have been using Black-Draught for about thirty years," says Mr. C. R. Suthers, who lives on the Lee highway, Wytheville, Va.

"I first began using Black-Draught for indigestion and gas pains. After I would eat, my food seemed to ferment and about a half an hour later I would have a sour taste in my mouth. I would also have shortness of breath.

"My wife read about Black-Draught. She had taken some, and thought it would help me.

"And I want to say that it is certainly a good medicine. I have taken it for constipation, colds, or anything where a good laxative was needed, and it has never failed to help me.

"It seemed to cleanse the system and keep me in good shape. I am glad to recommend it to my friends. After using it for thirty years, it seems to do me as much good now as it did when I took my first dose."

Thedford's Black-Draught is prepared from highest quality medicinal herbs and roots, in a convenient powdered form. Easy to take and has no bad after-effects.

GEN. NOBILE'S RESCUER
ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

Lundborg Takes Blame for Act for Which Italian Was Criticized.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Capt.
Einar-Paul Lundborg, Swedish aviator who rescued Gen. Umberto Nobile of Italy after the crash of the dirigible Italia in the Arctic last year, arrived on the liner Drottningholm today still strongly defending the Italia commander against all charges.

When Lundborg found Nobile, the General was stranded on an ice floe with five companions. The aviator carried the General to safety. When he went back for the others, his plane crashed in landing and he was stranded with them for two weeks until taken off by another aviator.

An investigation of the Italia disaster was made by a special Italian commission which found Nobile responsible. A few days ago he resigned his commission in the Italian air service.

Capt. Lundborg said today that criticism of Nobile for leaving his companions on the ice floe when rescue of one man had been a possible should in fact be directed against the Swedish rescuer.
"It was I," he said, "who insisted that Nobile himself should be the one to accompany me. I had orders from Capt. Tornberg, chief of the Swedish expedition, if I sighted the lost airmen to take the one who was most important and, if possible, the General.
"As I saw the General sitting before the tent, I realized that he was downhearted. His leg was broken.
I decided to take him with me in my plane because he would be the best in the matter of reports on the disaster. He alone could give the best instructions having to do with those yet to be rescued."

Lundborg said that when he first asked Nobile to leave with him, the General refused, saying that the five others must be rescued first. After several refusals, a conference was held among the Italians, he said, and finally Gen. Nobile consented to go first.

"I did not command him, but I urged him," Lundborg said. "After all, I was the pilot and he could not fly alone. It was for me to make the decision. All the criticism directed against Nobile should be directed against me."

Capt. Lundborg has a two-month leave from the Swedish army and will spend the time lecturing and studying American aviation methods.

CARDS BEAT RED SOX, 5-3; BROWNS DOWN PHILS, 10-5

Selph Hits Safely Three Times, Mitchell Drives in Two Runs

By Lloyd A. McMaster
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 19.—The Cardinals returned to batting form today, pounded three Boston Red Sox pitchers for 11 hits and won 5 to 3.

Alexander Injured.

An injury to Grover Alexander in practice drew expressions of concern from Red Sox players. Old Pete was pitching in batting practice when Delker hit a line drive straight back at him. The smash was so fast that Alex did not have time to get out of the way and it hit him on the right arm, just above the elbow. It raised a big lump and Alex spent an hour under the attention of trainer Harrison Weaver. Manager Southworth said he expected the blow to keep Alex idle for three or four days.

FIRST INNING—RED SOX.—Rothrock lifted to Hafey. Rhyme singled to right. Scarritt was hit by a pitched ball. Flagstead walked, filling the bases. Todd struck out. Reeves forced Flagstead. High to Selph.

SECOND—RED SOX.—Delker tossed out Regan from deep short. Heving singled over second. Morris was called out on strikes. Rothrock forced Heving. Delker to Selph.

CARDINALS—Hafey doubled to right and took third on a passed ball. Hafey scored on Roettger's sacrifice fly to Flagstead. Rothrock made a fine running catch of Welker's drive in deep right center. J. Wilson out. Regan to Todd. ONE RUN.

FOURTH—RED SOX.—Regan beat out a tap through the box and took second on High's overthrown of first base. Heving singled to center, scoring Regan. Morris was again called out on strikes. Delker made a sensational leaping catch of Rothrock's high line and threw to J. Wilson, doubling Heving. ONE RUN.

FIFTH—RED SOX.—Lingerel went to the mound for Cards. Hafey came in for Rhyme's fly. Scarritt grounded to Selph. Flagstead singled to center. Watkins came in for Todd's fly.

CARDINALS—Dumas went to right field for the Red Sox. Regan took Hafey's pop behind first. Roettger grounded to Reeves. Delker singled to left. Berry's throw to Regan nailed Delker trying to steal.

SIXTH—RED SOX.—Hafey was under Reeves' fly. Regan filed to Roettger. Berry singled to right. Ruffing filed to Roettger.

CARDINALS—Williams went to left field for the Red Sox. J. Wilson popped to Regan. Mancuso walked. Frisch batted for Lingerel and walked. Mancuso took third on Watkins' sacrifice fly to Rothrock. Frisch stole second for the first theft of the year. Rhyme threw out Selph.

CHICK HAFEY —As He Appears Today

$20,000 Gate Predicted For Bass-Abad Fight at Coliseum Arena Tonight

Benny Bass, the hardest hitting featherweight in the world, will face Dave Abad, one of the shiftest boxers in the game, in the main event at the New Coliseum tonight. The bout is scheduled to go 10 rounds, or less. Johnny Kaiser, with his right hand mended, meets elusive Mike Esposito of New York in the final event on the program of five bouts.

Abad will enter the ring with a slight weight advantage over Bass. In the official weighing in at the City Hall this afternoon, Bass weighed 129 pounds, while Abad weighed 130 1/2 pounds. Johnny Kaiser, at 127 pounds, will carry six pounds more weight than will Mike Esposito, whom he meets in the final bout.

Matchmaker Jack Tippet stated this morning that his advance sale has shattered all local records for the boxing game, with cash receipts of approximately $10,000 already in the till and reservations on file for an additional $2000 worth of tickets, indicating the show will draw around $20,000.

Whether the main event goes the full 10 rounds depends largely on whether Benny Bass wants Abad to stay the limit. In their recent bout here, Bass proved beyond question that he can hurt the Panama boy any time he wants to let his right hand go. Dodging Dave made a real thriller out of the affair by walking into Benny, throwing rights and lefts from all angles and taking a good cuffing in return, but the fact remains that neither was hurt at the finish.

We Need No Fourth Meeting. This is their third meeting. If it isn't more convincing than the previous one it should be the last. The appearance of either in St. Louis is judged by what they displayed there three weeks ago. Abad has only a remote chance of hurting Bass, while Benny seems capable of stopping Abad if he goes after him.

The Kaiser-Esposito bout should produce a whirlwind fight, provided Johnny's hand stands up under hard punching. Esposito broke the bones in his Big Bertha two months ago in a bout with Claude Wilson. He has taken several bouts since that time, but he has held the right in check, scoring knockouts with a left hook.

Esposito is an elusive target. He is no man killer as a puncher, but it would be foolhardy to let him land on an unprotected jaw. He cut Paul Steadman to ribbons in their recent meeting here, but could not knock him out.

Pivac Opposes Jimmy Bean. Among the supporting bouts.

22 SCHOOLS TO MEET IN NATIONAL ACADEMY ATHLETIC TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., March 19.—Nine states will be represented when athletes of 22 schools compete for the national academy championships in basketball, track and swimming at the University of Wisconsin here Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Lake Forest Academy cagers, Lake Forest, Ill., are the defending champions in the basketball tourney, which will be an elimination affair with no consolation series. Other teams entered are Illinois Military Academy, Alton, Ill.; Manlius School, Elgin Academy, Elgin, Ill.; St. Alban's Academy, Syracuse, N. Y.; St. John's Military Academy, Deland, Fla.; and Racine College, Racine, Wis.

BALL OWNS HALF OF MILWAUKEE BASEBALL CLUB

That Phil Ball, president of the Browns, owns half of the capital stock of the Milwaukee club of the American Association, is one of the disclosures that accompanied Commissioner Landis' action in declaring all players free agents and assessing fines against numerous major and minor league clubs.

When Henry Killilea, purchased the Milwaukee club it was rumored that the St. Louis club or Phil Ball personally was interested financially in the deal, but no confirmation could be obtained.

Landis' action also explains the purpose of the recent visit to the Browns' office of Leslie O'Connor, Landis' private secretary. O'Connor walked unexpectedly into the Browns' office more than a month ago and before anyone had a chance to do any "covering up" O'Connor inspected the books and correspondence in the office and probably found the evidence he was seeking about Claude Jonnard and the relations between Ball and Milwaukee.

Exchange of Checks. Landis, in explaining the Jonnard deal, said that a St. Louis check for $5000 initial payment went to Milwaukee through official channels but was not deposited until a month later, when Mr. Killilea, then president of the Browns, withdrew the same amount.

On Dec. 11, the statement continued, Mr. Killilea drew his personal check in this amount, in the event it was in black and gave it to President Phil Ball of St. Louis. The check was cashed Dec. 23 by a Chicago bank on the St. Louis club's accounts to the credit of the Milwaukee club.

"Proof is now presented by Mr. Ball," said the statement, "that he participated with Mr. Killilea in the purchase of the Milwaukee club and that he is and has been the owner of one-half of its capital stock. In regard to the $5000 check it was explained by Ball that it was agreed that he was to receive one-half of all salary paid to Killilea by the club but that somebody at Ball's personal office hindered in sending the proceeds to the St. Louis club office and that the $5000 now has been given to Mr. Ball."

"It seems to be," said the commissioner, "so far as time of issue of the $5000 check is concerned, more connection between the check and the Jonnard payment, than between this check and a salary division, which Ball claims."

"It would seem that the salary division would be made either by Killilea sending Ball one-half of each salary payment as received (which was not done), or periodically, (which was not done)."

BIG 10 BASEBALL SQUADS IN HAND TRAINING DRILLS

CHICAGO, March 19.—With kettball out of the way, sport lower in the Big Ten Conference are now turning their attention to baseball. The season will get under way April 4 when Indiana plays at Ohio State. Wisconsin will be the last to enter the race, not starting until April 27 when they engage Indiana.

Indoor sessions have been held by practically all coaches during the last month while several squads have been working outdoors frequently whenever the weather permitted. Starting with squads numbered from 60 to 70 players, most coaches have already cut their number of candidates down to around 25 players. A final cut will be made during the next two weeks.

To the Land of Cotton. The majority of teams will take Southern training trips again this season. Among the teams which will make jaunts to the southern states are Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana, Northwestern, Illinois, Ohio State and Michigan.

Michigan won the Big Ten Conference championship in basketball last season, winning 11 games. Purdue finished second with six games won and four lost while Chicago and Wisconsin tied for third place, each with seven games won and five dropped.

With the exception of Iowa and Purdue, all teams will engage in 12 conference games, the Hawkeyes and Boilermakers each making the longest Southern trip, traveling 3600 miles on the way and playing eight games with teams from five different states. Six games will be played with the Institute of Houston, Tex. Northwestern also has a game scheduled with Rice Institute, the Wilkes playing seven games on their training trip.

Many Veterans to Return. Practically all teams in the circuit will be fairly well fortified with veterans of last season. Based on present indications, Michigan, Purdue, Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio State will likely be among the teams putting in strong bids for the championship, although some of the supposedly weak teams before the present outlook may develop rapidly and spill the dope before the season is far advanced.

DEMPOSEY SAMMY MANDELL HAS ACCEPTED TERMS FOR BOUT AGAINST MILLER

Joe Dundee Signs To Defend Welter Title on June 24

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, March 19.—Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, yesterday signed a contract for Eddie Mack, boxing promoter at the Boston Garden, to defend his title here at Braves Field on June 24. Mack was authorized to name either Al Mello, Jackie Fields, Jimmy McLarnin or Young Jack Thompson as Dundee's opponent.

Mack said that Dundee demanded the largest guarantee given to a welterweight champion before agreeing to risk his crown.

The Boston promoter has not decided which challenger he will attempt to match with the champion. Mello, a Boston favorite, already has outpointed Dundee in a non-title bout and will meet him in another such contest in the Boston garden, April 12. If Mello again defeated Dundee, Mack said, he would be forced to give him an opportunity to fight for the title.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Jack Dempsey, the promoter, announced last night he had persuaded Sammy Mandell, the "Rockford Sheik," to defend his lightweight championship against Ray Miller, the Chicago left hook artist, "sometime in June." The fight, Dempsey said, probably would be held either in Detroit or New York.

The old Master Mauler said all of his plans for the lightweight title battle were indefinite at this time, but he expected to be able to announce the exact date and site within a few days. At present he hopes to hold the bout on June 7, either at Detroit or New York, with the former city the more likely place.

Dempsey said he had signed Mandell in Detroit several days ago and had completed arrangements with Miller here today. He asserted that Miller would get the title "shot" regardless of the outcome of his battle with Jimmy McLarnin at Madison Square Garden, Friday night.

"Miller is a legitimate lightweight; McLarnin a welterweight," Dempsey pointed out. "The result of Friday's fight won't affect my plan at all."

The former heavyweight champion made it clear that this proposed bout would be promoted solely by himself, his first venture unassisted in the field made famous by Tex Rickard. He said that even if he were to come to an agreement with Humbert J. Fuzay, Metropolitan promoter, or the Madison Square Garden corporation, or any other promoter, the Miller-Mandell battle would be his own "brain child."

If the bout is held in New York, Dempsey said he probably would have it in one of the ball parks; if in Detroit, he probably would have it built as outdoor arena.

ST. LOUIS TO BID FOR FIRST GAME OF U. S. SOCCER TITLE SERIES

TABLERS LIKELY TO OPPOSE MUNY TITLE HOLDERS IN GAME SUNDAY

By Dent McSkimming

While efforts are being made to schedule a city championship soccer game Sunday between the South Side of the Municipal League and the Tablers of the professional circuit, local officials are also making every effort to have the first game of the national championship final played in St. Louis on Sunday, March 24.

Although the St. Louis Soccer League lease on Sportsman's Park expires with next Sunday's game, it is understood that Phil Ball, owner of the park, has indicated he would extend the privilege of the grounds for one week if the national final was scheduled. It will be impossible to play the first game of the final series between the Browns and Cardinals will be played on Saturday and Sunday, April 13 and 14.

Entitled to First Game. Secretary T. W. Cahill of the United States Football Association sought to gain the consent of St. Louis officials to playing the first game of the final series between East and West in New York on March 24, but his proposal was flatly rejected.

"St. Louis is entitled to the first game," said Phil Riley, treasurer of the St. Louis Soccer League, today. "Last season, the East had its turn and the final was played at New York. The game resulted in a tie score and was replayed at Chicago. It has been customary for many years to alternate the cup final between East and West. It is now the West's turn."

"Furthermore, we would be unable to hold the final here later than March 21 because of lack of a playing field. There seems no alternative. The first game of the series must be played in St. Louis or not at all."

Mossman Boosts Players. "Playing as they did against Holley and Sparta, the Madison forwards are liable to score goals against any club. I think they have a good chance to beat either Hakoah or the New York Giants," so says Oscar Mossman, referee of the St. Louis Soccer League and coach of the Madisons.

Incidentally, the general improvement in all phases of the Madisons' play is due in large measure to Mossman's coaching. True shooting, more accurate passing and a better understanding between players are all indications that Mossman's teaching was well directed.

Keep Passes on Ground. David Sutherland, ex-Aldrieon player of the Scottish League, in a voluntary criticism of Sunday's game, writes that he never saw faster football than the Madisons played. "But," he says, "let the wing halfbacks keep their passes on the ground. And let Flavin try a thrust through center more often."

Although they are reluctant to admit defeat, the Sparta club must realize that they did not make the most of their own opportunities. Too many shots from beyond the penalty area went far over the bar, and too often there was a fatal tendency to play pretty football when a shot was in order.

But, Sparta's style has heretofore proved good enough to beat good clubs. Perhaps, it is the right system against any opponent, except a good St. Louis team.

New Hurler of Braves Relies On His Speed

BRUCE CUNNINGHAM
BRAVES

I F Bruce Cunningham proves to be a success in the majors he probably will wake up some morning to find himself being called "Swift" Cunningham, for speed is his forte.

Bruce won 17 and lost 13 for the Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League last year and finished with an ordinary earned run average of 4.22, yet the scouts passed the word along that he would do.

So the Cubs picked up the young right-hander and then sent him to the Braves in the Hornsby deal.

Cunningham is 23 years old, weighs 165 pounds and is 5 feet 11 inches tall. His home is in Oakland, Cal.

U. S. RYDER CUP TEAM ALL AMERICAN BORN

LONDON, March 18.—Samuel Ryder, donor of the Ryder Cup, has replied to Walter Hagen's suggestion to the effect that the American team might be open to British-born professionals resident of the United States.

"The American side which is playing this year," says Mr. Ryder, "is composed of American-born players. This question was all settled before the Cup was given, and it would be ridiculous to expect that men who had learned their golf in Britain and emigrated should assist the United States in such a match."

Mr. Ryder announces that the British team will probably go for special training to Scarborough before proceeding to Leeds for final practice.

The Professional Golfers' Association, who are responsible for the management of the Ryder Cup match, have launched an appeal for contributions to the fund necessary to cover the expenses, not only for this year's match, but also of the next contest to be played in America in 1931.

It is estimated that for two matches between $17,500 and $20,000 will be required, and for this sum the association officials are dependent entirely on the golfing public.

Corbett Retains Title

LONDON, March 18.—With his British featherweight title at stake, Harry Corbett, the champion, held Johnny Cuthbert, the challenger, to a draw in a 15-round bout at the National Sporting club last night.

C. B. C. MEETS CENTRAL TEAM IN FIRST GAME

By Robert W. Herr

The first of the local high school baseball teams to get into action, Christian Brothers College, champions of the Preparatory League, will meet Central High of the City League on the C. B. C. field Thursday afternoon at 2:30 in a practice game. As both squads are composed largely of new players, the strength of the two schools is unknown.

Though he has but two players of last season's championship nine back in uniform, Coach Jack O'Reilly of C. B. C. has a likely looking squad of recruits and is confident that the Brothers will repeat their success of last year. From a record turnout of 120 candidates, O'Reilly has cut his squad to 25 men.

It is probable that the Brothers' greatest strength will lie in the pitching staff. Among the four most outstanding hurlers are the two lone regulars of last season, Duvoic, who is pitching his third and last campaign, and McHenry, first sacker in 1928. Kenny and Murphy, two new men have been doing well and will probably get an opportunity to work several of the games. Lam and Duggan will handle the catching assignment.

O'Reilly's greatest problem will be the building up of an airtight infield. With the loss of Johnny Corcoran, basketball and baseball luminary and All-Star Prep League shortstop of last season, who has signed a contract to play with the Little Rock, Ark. club, the infield will be considerably weakened. It is possible that McHenry will work at his old first base position when not pitching but the three other positions will be filled by newcomers. Of the many candidates, Rust, Fuchs, McDonald, Foley, Fitzgerald, Devine and Gould are the most outstanding. It will also be necessary to build an entire new outfield. Prior of last year's squad seems assured of a position among the fly-chasers, and Redman, a recruit, has been showing well in practice.

With the task of defending the title, and the possibility of winning the championship for the third consecutive year, O'Reilly is arranging as many practice games as possible before the start of the league season, April 19. The schedule, to date, is as follows: March 21—Central at C. B. C. March 26—Central at C. B. C. April 1—Soldan at C. B. C. April 19—C. B. C. at St. Louis U. H. April 23—McBride at C. B. C. April 27—C. B. C. at Western M. A. May 3—Country Day at C. B. C. May 10—C. B. C. at McBride. May 11—St. Louis U. H. at C. B. C. May 24—Western M. A. at C. B. C. May 28—C. B. C. at Country Day.

Fencing Title Is At Stake Tonight At Downtown 'Y'

A score of the best fencers in the St. Louis district will compete tonight in the Texier Cup competition, emblematic of the independent fols championship of St. Louis. The tournament will be held at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. and will be open to all fencers who are members of the Missouri Valley Fencing Association.

A new champion is sure to be crowned for the present titleholder, Lieut. Ford of the Army, is now stationed in China and will therefore relinquish his championship. Among the outstanding contenders for the cup are Conway Briscoe, Ed Nuttall and Bob Nuttall, all of Washington University; Eddie Brigham and Compton of the Downtown Y. M. C. A., and C. Rothenhaber of the North Side Y.

There is no admission charge for spectators.

Players Want Too Much. ORLANDO, Fla., March 19.—The plan of Manager Jack Hendricks to add to the Cincinnati Reds' roster three players recently declared free agents by Commissioner Landis, appeared doomed today. Catcher Spencer, who is working out with Indianapolis at Sarasota, wanted too much money. Hendricks said, and he gave up the negotiations. Pitcher Ernie Wingard also wanted more than the Red pilot would pay. This left only Pitcher Claude Jonnard, who has been training with the St. Louis Browns.

Huggins Is Undecided. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19.—Miller Huggins is reluctant on how the Yankees will line up during the coming campaign. All he will say is that he has an open mind on all his youngsters at the present time. He won't say whether he intends to keep Koenig and Lary at short or give Koenig back his old shortstop job and let Gene Robertson play third. All the young pitchers still have a chance to make good, Miller affirms, and he's not any more definite as to his young outfielders, Sam Byrd and Elias Funk.

Why Worry?

Babe Ruth isn't worried over his failure to hit in the spring training games. It takes time for the old eye to accustom itself to the difference between a golf ball and a baseball.

One would think that a baseball, being so much the larger, would be easier to hit. And maybe it would be if the pitcher would tee it up for him.

DENVER BASKETBALL TEAM WANTS TO PLAY A. A. U. CHAMPIONS

By the Associated Press. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 19.—Eddie Kenna, catcher, and Emil Yoter, third baseman, were purchased yesterday from the Washington Americans by Minneapolis of the American Association. Both formerly played with Minneapolis.

DENVER, March 19.—Holding the honor of being the only team that won a basketball series this year from the Cooks of Kansas City, two-time national champions, Montana State College today was offered a challenge of facing the titleholders in another three-game series in Denver, starting March 28.

In their three-game series earlier this season Montana State soundly routed the Cooks, two games of three, in Montana. The Bobcats will play the University of Colorado for the Rocky Mountain Conference championship, the three games ending in Denver last Saturday night.

WARNE WILL TRY FOR NEW VAULTING RECORD By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 19.—Tom Warne, Northwestern's star pole vaulter, will attempt to break his world indoor record of 13 feet 7 3/4 inches off a dirt floor during Northwestern's interscholastic track, swimming and wrestling tournament Saturday.

Seven states, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Ohio, Wisconsin and Oklahoma, have entered teams in the meet.

12 TRACK STARS ARE BACK WITH SOLDAN'S SQUAD

By Harold Tuthill

Soldan has 12 men around whom will be built the squad that will represent the West Enders in the coming track and field meets. With the exception of one, all the candidates are in the senior division, so that the juniors and midlets will remain unknown quantities until after the first meet.

The leftovers from last year's list of lettermen include Ed Mossotti and Adrian Bray, hurdlers; Cliff Lewis and Buchala, 550-yard runners; Bob Campbell, miler, and Harry Minkey, pole vaulter. Bill Strand and Jack Soest, weight men, are newcomers who give promise of being able to place in competition.

Three of last season's juniors have graduated to the senior division. They are Dave Cook and Art Frohardt, hurdlers, and Ed Herskowitz, short distance runner. Max Librach, in the weights, is the only junior left in that division.

Coach A. H. Plag will complete his selection as soon as weather permits the squad to practice outdoors.

Many Three-Sport Stars. Players who star in three sports are rather plentiful in the high schools. Bieber, Jansen, McLaughlin and Ketterer of Cleveland have played together in football, basketball and baseball. Beaumont's three-time representatives are Carl Weldner, Mike Barnhouse and "Moose" Holtman. Central has Baseman and Cunningham, while Cook at Soldan and Frazier at Roosevelt complete the list.

Many Vets at Beaumont. There will be few new faces in the Beaumont team that hopes to repeat as baseball champions. Last year's Beaumont nine was Roller, second; Holtman, right; Probst, left; Weldner, first base; Fox, shortstop; Hauserman, catcher; Goodwin, center; Carr, third, and Slater, pitcher.

Unless eligibility affects some of the players, Holtman, Probst, Weldner, Carr and Slater will open the season for the North Siders. Ben Shaber, who obtained a regular berth late last season, probably will be moved from the out-

Londos, Broken Ribs and All, to Meet Mondt Friday

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, March 19.—JIMMY LONDOS, the Greek heavyweight wrestler, who was reported as having suffered "serious injury" in a bout with Jim Clinstock of St. Louis two weeks ago, is scheduled to oppose Toots Mondt here Friday night. Press dispatches from St. Louis said that a physician had found Londos suffering three fractured ribs after Clinstock had finished applying his body scissors. The physician was quoted as saying that Londos would not be able to wrestle for "at least four and possibly six weeks."

Mondt, who will be Londos' opponent Friday, recently lost to Dick Shikat here after tumbling out of the ring, a stunt he is reported to have employed in St. Louis in a bout with Londos, less than a month ago.

field to the infield. Coach Victor Kirk cut the squad of 150 on the first day to about 50. The pruning process will go on in search of a catcher and several outfielders.

ED LEWIS AND LUTZE REPORT TODAY FOR MATCH HERE FRIDAY

Ed "Strangler" Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion, and Nick Lutze of Chicago, principals in a return match Friday night at the New Coliseum, are scheduled to report here today and to begin their final training workouts at the National Gymnasium. Tommy Marvin and Lloyd Carter, heavyweights, and George Tragos, a local light heavyweight, will serve as training partners of Lewis in his workouts at the gymnasium. George McDowell, the St. Louis University law student, who meets Tragos in the first preliminary of Friday night's show, has been assigned to Lutze's training stable, along with Ad Herman, an East Side heavyweight.

Jim Clinstock, Indian and Jim McMillan, former Illinois University athlete, are expected to arrive tomorrow to prepare for other heavyweight events on the New Coliseum bill. Clinstock will engage Moose Norbeck of Canada, while McMillan is paired with Firpo Wilcox of Oklahoma.

When we say that Dutch Masters is "fine as any imported cigar" we are not just talking talk. Try out a Dutch Master alongside of any imported cigar you please. We believe that you will agree that the difference between the two is the price.

We often wonder why no cigar manufacturer has fallen for the current advertising vogue of publishing glowing testimonials from the great and near-great. Maybe it's because the big men who smoke cigars are too big to be interested in seeing their pictures in the paper.

No single quality alone makes a good cigar. Neither mildness nor fragrance nor "body." But a just right proportion of these qualities makes the kind of cigar that grows on you. Hence the increasing number of smokers who say "There's nothing like Dutch Masters."

DAYLIGHT SAVING PLAN WILL BE CONSIDERED

Meeting of Civic Groups Called by Chamber of Commerce for Friday.

Among other signs of spring, the perennial call for daylight saving sprouted lustily today in a Chamber of Commerce invitation for a conference of civic and commercial organizations with city officials at 2 p. m. Friday at the Chamber, room 720.

Daylight saving agitation has scarcely been hardy in St. Louis. However brightly it has sprung up along in February or March, it has failed to thrive. Attempts to establish it here failed in 1921, 1922 and 1927.

Golfers, tennis players and sportsmen generally, by the record, may be expected to support the movement for turning the clocks forward an hour in early summer and turning them back again in early autumn. Back of the recreational element is the weight of financial and business interests and health authorities.

The movement in 1927, which died before it reached a vote of the public or the Board of Aldermen, was begun by a suggestion of the Health Commissioner. The Associated Retailers were a chief backer of daylight saving in 1923, when it was defeated unanimously by the Aldermen.

An extra hour of healthful recreation in daylight for workmen has been a principal argument for daylight saving, but the Central Trades and Labor Union and the Building Trades Council, together representing 95,000 workers, have gone on record against it.

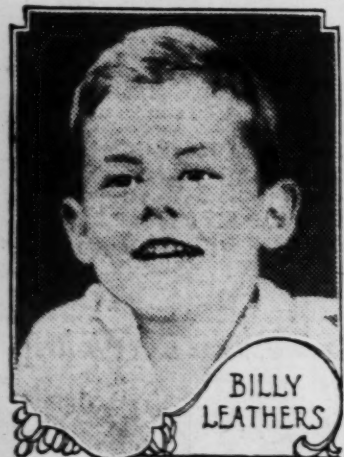

In addition to taking shots at "a white-collar movement" union officers and delegates have argued that moving the clocks an hour fast would merely let workers off the job at an afternoon hour too hot to do anything pleasant and would get them out of bed in the cool, early morning, when they were just beginning to get some real sleep. No matter how much the clock might be moved up, they submitted, it was impossible to hasten bedtime where summers were too hot for sleep before midnight (central standard time).

Joining with them on scientific grounds in 1927 was Montrose W. Hayes, head of the Weather Bureau. On other grounds, the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League opposed it as detrimental to early evening shows; the Retail Druggists' Association as inimical to evening curb soda fountain trade; and the Municipal Opera in fear that beginning in daylight would reduce first acts to absurdity and beginning later would thrust it into difficulties with musicians and stage hands, whose working day is over at 11:15 p. m.

Railroad employees generally and the Photo-Engravers' local were cited as favoring the movement, along with the Kiwanis Club, Optimists' Club, American Business Club, Real Estate Exchange, Merchants' Exchange and neighborhood improvement associations.

In the call for Friday's conference the Chamber of Commerce, which in its similar notice two years ago declared "We regard this as a vital issue," withheld judgment and says that daylight saving is up to the majority at the meeting. It mentions "the opinion of many" that "the conditions inimical to

BILLY LEATHERS
Missouri Lady
Knew Answer

"Yes, sir, I am certainly proud of my little boy," says Mrs. E. Leathers, 6459 Wells St., St. Louis. "He's the picture of health as you can see, and I feel like he'll always be that way as long as I can get California Fig Syrup. I have used it with him ever since he was a year old. I knew what to give him for his colds and his feverish, upset spells because Mother used California Fig Syrup with all of us as children. I have used it freely with my baby, and he loves it. It always fixes him up, quick."

In many homes, like this, the third and fourth generations are using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup because it has never failed to do what is expected of it. Nothing so quickly and thoroughly purges a child's system of the souring waste which keeps him cross, feverish, headachy, bilious, half-sick, with chafed tongue, bad breath and no appetite or energy as long as it is allowed to remain in the little stomach and bowels. Fig Syrup gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act as Nature intends them to do, and helps build up and strengthen weak, pale and underweight children. Over four million bottles used a year shows its popularity. The genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years, always bears the word "California."

the adoption of the daylight saving plan in past years do not exist now."

"It is our opinion," said the chairman two years ago, commenting on the similar notice on March 7, 1927, "that conditions have changed in St. Louis so that there will be slight opposition to this plan."

Drink Water If Back or Kidneys Hurt

Begin Taking Salts if You Feel Backache or Have Bladder Weakness

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

By Helen Rowland

"STYLE-CONSCIOUS" MEN

THE average man will need only 12 hats, eight overcoats and 20 suits of clothes, this season, in order to be properly dressed.

This announcement of the style promoters has come with a great shock to a lot of unsuspecting husbands. But the blow to the men is no nothing, beside the speechless amazement with which it has struck their wives.

Any woman who has had to buy, nag, coax and threaten her darling into his ONE suit of evening clothes and his one clean boiled-shirt, twice a year, ever since they were married, will probably faint at the news.

The big struggle of the average woman's life is to lure, coerce, hector, shame or browbeat her husband into buying a new suit of clothes, now and then.

His unflinching answer to all her pleadings and arguments is "What-samatter with the one I got?"

Persuading him to throw away an old hat or discard a faded pair of knickers takes all her strength, tact and finesse. And even then, she often has to work on his sentiment, by recalling how beautifully groomed he always was during their courtship days and asking him if he doesn't love her any more.

The real germ of many a divorce has been the moth-eaten college sweater or the mouldy pair of hunting boots, which a heartless wife has surreptitiously sent to the starving husband.

As for inducing a man to keep two dinner coats or two evening suits on hand—his hat! He would as soon think of keeping a harem! Two motor cars? Yes. Two wives? Perhaps. But never more than one collar-button, one clean evening shirt and one "sarcophagus," at a time!

Besides, will the Merchant Tailors kindly tell Father how he is going to hang his 20 suits of clothes on the one lap up he has always been allowed in Mother's clothes closet? Or where he will squeeze in his 12 hats among the 24 chapeaux on Mother's hat shelf?

And if he becomes clothes-conscious and buys himself eight new overcoats to replace the faded, fringed one he has been wearing for the last three winters, where will the money come from for Mother's ermine evening wrap?

Once men may have had the time to enjoy doling up in broad coats, lace ruffles, silk stockings and silver buckled shoes. But time is money, nowadays — and gasoline and golf! And there is no glamour about cast-iron derby hats and a pair of tweed trousers!

"Alas, nay, you can lead a modern man to frilled pajamas and lavender cravats and white satin evening clothes—but you can't make him WEAR 'em!"

Not if he's married—and you're his own wife!

Value of Onions

THE onion is a healthful article of food but it also has great value as a remedy. Grandma used to cure the family colds with onions. People are people now just as they were then, so they will cure a cough or hoarseness now just as it did then. It is worth trying anyway. Put one-half cup minced onions, one cup vinegar and one cup molasses into a saucepan, simmer half an hour and strain. A teaspoonful of the mixture should be taken frequently.

A physician recommends the juice of finely sliced onions sprinkled with sugar for heavy colds. To extract the juice put the onions in a pan, sprinkle with sugar and set pan on radiator or where the onions will heat very slowly. Teaspoonful doses of the juice taken at frequent intervals will give speedy relief.

Kitchen Kinks

Wipe off the kitchen stove after each meal with a crumpled newspaper and you will not have to worry about blacking. It will look well enough without it.

Fat can be rendered out nicely in the double boiler.

Chopped chives in the cream dressing for potatoes add flavor.

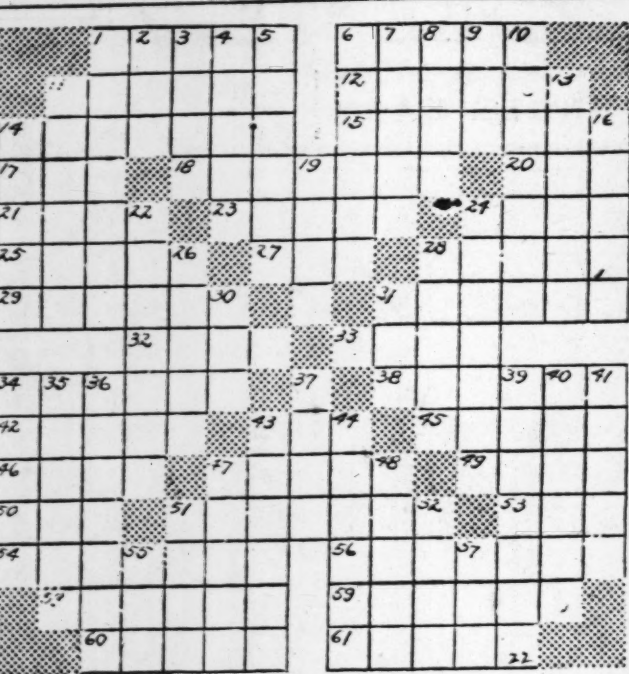

Smelts are very good boned and stuffed with a bread filling and then baked.

Leftover boiled potatoes will keep sweet longer if spread out on a platter instead of being put away in a pile.

Soak dried fruits overnight in water before cooking. It will make them plump and soften the dried tissues.

Roast chicken will go further with plenty of good filling.

Simple Science for Everybody

By Colin G. Welles, Ph. D.

RAISING TONS OF WATER WITHOUT A PUMP.

IT'S a long journey from the root of a forest tree to its top, most of the way.

And for years scientists were baffled by the mystery of how water was pumped or pulled up the long stretch inside the trees, and they ventured all sorts of explanations.

The roots pump it, said some. And the leaves pull it, said others. And still different explanations were made by still others. But none of these things could account for the long uphill journey of the water, and even all of them together did not explain it. All of the explanations were just guesses, and even now, though all of the scientists agree that at last they've found a more convincing explanation, they can't be absolutely sure that this is right.

Still, this is the modern idea of the thing:

Bits of water in a narrow stream stick closely together, and if the little stream is narrow enough (as it must be inside the trunk and branches of a tree), the stream can be pulled along like a wire, not breaking, because each little particle of water clutches its neighbor for dear life, rather than give way and be separated.

Scientists now believe that the wily thread of water is pulled upward within the tree by the evaporation which is using up the water at the top of the column. The moisture in the leaves is perpetually evaporating into the air, and consequently, the leaves constantly pull upward on the wily thread of water within the trunk and branches. The thread stream is tough—and though the evaporation from the leaves pulls it steadily upward—it doesn't break.

So, instead of pumps or machinery, the tree relies only on the tough strength of a narrow stream of water to pull tons of life-giving sap to the highest leaves every day. And if it weren't for this strange quality of water there would be no tall forest trees to talk about.

The Garden In Spring

(National Garden Bureau)

SOIL MUST BE DUG

THE soil in the garden must be dug and cultivated again and again for one purpose, that of ventilation. This idea doesn't often occur to the gardener laboriously plying a spading fork or hoe, but that is what he is doing. He is ventilating his soil to let the air into it and to expose as much of it as possible to the sun. Every spade forkful turned over exposes that much more of the soil to the sun and to the air and makes the soil more accessible to the air to a greater depth.

Scientists now tell us that the ancient formula of "earth to earth" is an inappropriate symbol of death because the soil is teeming with life, millions and millions of bacteria being always at work to create and maintain life, converting chemical elements into food for plants and the plants in turn for man and the beasts and birds. The activity of bacterial life is regulated by the amount of air and moisture that can penetrate the soil. Digging and cultivating is in reality fertilizing for each digging or stirring of the soil increases the chemical and bacterial activities in the soil and thus clear over when food locked up in the soil for the plants.

Clay soils are most impervious to air and moisture. Therefore they need more digging and breaking up and the addition of other substances such as sand, crushed limestone and humus to break up the compact mass and admit air and moisture. There is much plant life lying dormant in clay soils, unpromising though it seems to the gardener trying to work it. Gotten into friable condition, it is likely to contain more plant food than light sandy soils which are so much more easy to work.

Dig the soil this year and hoe with the idea in mind that you are fertilizing the plants at the same time you are destroying weeds and improving the tilth. Turn the spade or forkful of earth over when you dig the garden. The top layer has had air and sun. The layer at the bottom of the spade is to be exposed to the elements.

Purple-Blue New Color

STIFFENED chiffon, sheer and spring-like, is very smart for evening gowns this time of the year. One of the newest colors is purple-blue, and this material is quite stunning for a frock made without trimming, the design relying only upon the fabric and its color.

Printed and plain crepe de Chine is another material especially given attention just now in the trend toward materials without high lustre. For evening wear patterns are rather small, in fact so much more so than the size usually associated with evening dress that the effect is arrestingly new and different.

A Cooking Suggestion

When boiling rice for a meal cook a double amount and there will be some left over to quickly make into rice cakes, scalloped rice and other tomato rice puddings or soups. Preserve the rice stock and use it for part of the milk called for in rice recipes.

Orange fritters are very good served with a slice of fried ham.

Creamed magnesia beautifies the skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach

Instant Skin Beauty

Sallow, Dingy Skin made Lovely—Coarse Pores become Fine—It corrects oily skin, heals eruptions and dissolves blackheads

The newest discovery in beauty culture is that creamed magnesia is much better for the complexion than any soap or cleansing cream. It beautifies the skin instantly, in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. This is because skin impurities are acid. Doctors treat acid inside the body with milk of magnesia. And now, dermatologists are getting amazing results in banishing complexion faults with creamed magnesia. All you do is anoint your skin with it, massage and rinse with water. It's as simple as washing your face. It reduces enlarged pores to the finest, smoothest texture almost as if by magic. Being astringent, it drives away the tell-tale signs of age. You will marvel at the effect of your first five-minute facial massage. It rejuvenates the skin so quickly that any woman can look lovely tonight, years younger. It's marvelous how magnesia dissolves blackheads, clears eruptions and corrects oily skin.

And because it is so mild, mothers use it instead of soap to bathe infants. It certainly is a blessing as a face wash for fine, sensitive skins that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. Being greaseless, it cannot fatten the face or grow hair. It removes make-up and extracts impurities deep-set in the pores better than soap or cold cream. It changes dull, sallow skin to ivory-white and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons. Test it on those clogged nose pores that stand out so boldly. Let it whiten your neck. It will also keep your hands soft and white. Until recently, creamed magnesia was used only by New York doctors' wives, and nurses. But now the large drug stores everywhere find it hard to keep enough on hand to supply the demand. To get genuine creamed magnesia, ask for Denton's Facial Magnesia. Remember, five minutes works wonders. So, get your magnesia today and look lovely tonight. It costs almost nothing to try. It's Guaranteed!

No More Ugly Nose Pores

NOTE: Do not hesitate to try this marvelous skin treatment at once. Thousands of delighted women have written they could not believe anything so simple could do so wonderful. But they were convinced when they saw so many friends suddenly get lovely complexions.

Children's Bedtime Story

SHADOW'S BLACK-FOOTED COUSIN.

Too many neighbors are a curse. But none whatever may be worse. —Peter Rabbit.

PETER RABBIT was all curiosity. Yes, sir, Peter was all curiosity. Wanderer the Evening Grosbeak had mentioned the fact that Shadow the Weasel has a cousin—a black-footed cousin—who makes life most unpleasant for Yip Yap the Prairie Dog. Now, the one person whom Peter Rabbit fears most is Shadow the Weasel. He can escape from Reddy Fox or Old Man Coyote or a member of the Hawk family or the Owl family by plunging into the bramble-tangle, but a bramble-tangle is no protection from Shadow the Weasel. Wherever Peter can go, Shadow can go, and Peter knows it. So, of course, right away he wanted to know about this cousin of Shadow's. "Does he look like Shadow?" he asked.

Wanderer nodded. "He does and he doesn't," said he. "He is a lot bigger than Shadow. Do you know Billy Mink?"

"Of course, I know Billy Mink," was Peter's prompt reply.

"Well, this cousin of Shadow's is just about the size of Billy Mink, though he doesn't look at all like Billy. In form he is more like Shadow the Weasel. But he has black feet and a black band across his face."

"Is he as fierce as Shadow the Weasel?" demanded Peter.

"I guess he is," replied Wanderer, "by the way, Yip Yap says, When Blackfoot is around there is no happiness in Prairie Dog town. You see, he can go right down into the holes and no Prairie Dog has a chance in the world. You ought to see those Prairie Dogs disappear when someone gives the warning that Blackfoot is about."

"Do they call him Blackfoot the Weasel?" asked Peter.

"No," replied Wanderer, "they call him Blackfoot the Ferret. He is known as the Black-footed Ferret. The Ferrets are really Weasels. They belong to the same family."

The very thought of Blackfoot made creepy chills go all over Peter. Shadow the Weasel was bad enough, but somehow or other it seemed to him that Blackfoot the Ferret would be worse. "I'm glad he doesn't live around here," said Peter. "Did you ever see him very near here, Wanderer?"

Now, Wanderer knew just how Peter felt. "Don't worry, Peter," said he. "I have never seen Blackfoot anywhere, excepting in a Prairie Dog town. So don't worry about Blackfoot. Leave all that worrying to Yip Yap."

He is known as the Black-footed Ferret.

"Does Blackfoot live right in the Prairie Dog town?" inquired Peter.

"I guess so," replied Wanderer. "It would be the handiest place to live. He could use a deserted house and I guess that is what he does."

"Johnny Chuck is sensible," declared Peter.

"What under the sun has Johnny Chuck to do with it?" demanded Wanderer.

"Well, Johnny Chuck is Yip Yap's cousin, and I was thinking of the difference in the way they live. Johnny Chuck and Polly Chuck live by themselves," said Peter.

"Yip Yap and Mrs. Yip live in a town. No enemy of Johnny Chuck's would think of making his home close by. But if there were a lot of Chucks living close by, some enemy might make his home there, just as Blackfoot does where Yip Yap lives. There is such a thing as having too many neighbors."

"That is what Yip Yap said when Digger the Badger moved over to the edge of Prairie Dog town," said Wanderer. (Copyright, 1929.)

SUNSHINE is nature's greatest wealth, the world has known it. But only recently doctors learned why sunshine is so beneficial. Now, Professor Harry Steenbock of the University of Wisconsin, noted scientist, has gone further. He has added the bone building factor of sunshine to the list of its benefits.

Vitamin "D" is the name scientists give to this bone-building element of sunshine. It enables the body to make good use of the calcium in foods. Bones and teeth are built of calcium. A child who has plenty of Vitamin "D" has strong bones and teeth. Legs are straight and strong.

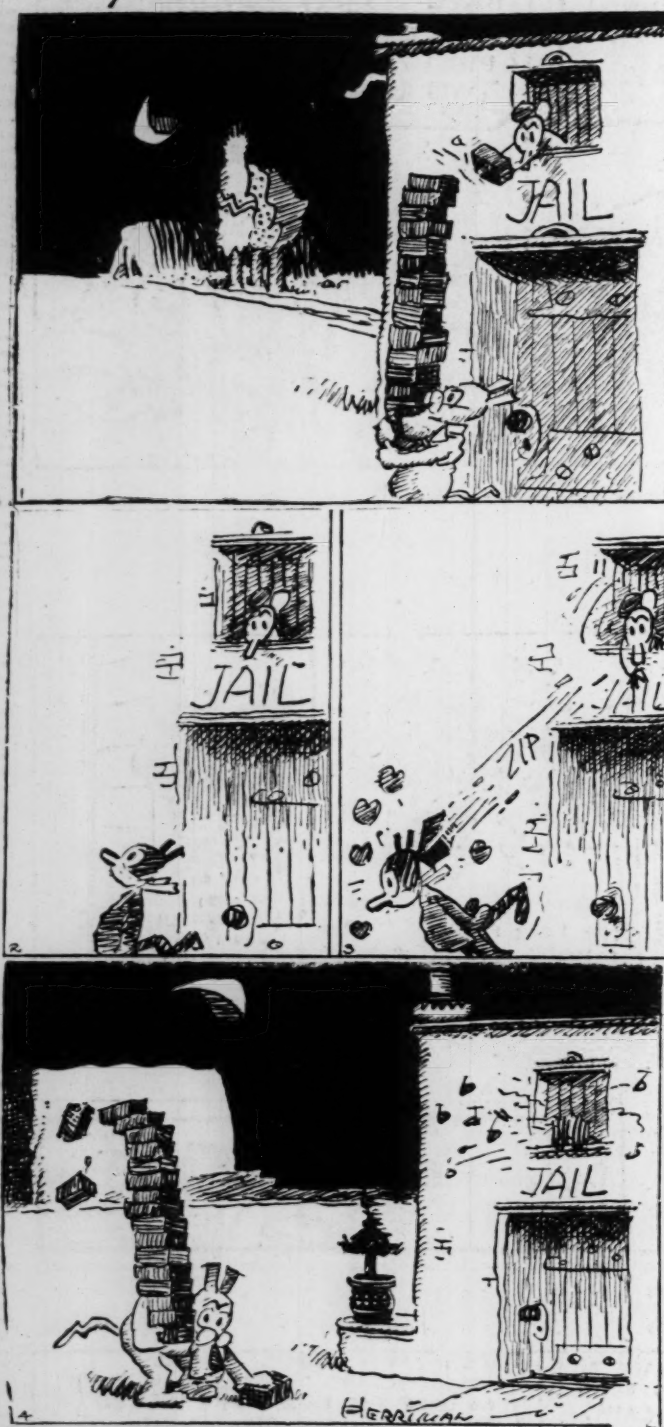

Lacking this magic "sun" vitamin, the child's development is often faulty. Bow legs, rickets are common symptoms. The child has a "winter" time; is "always catching cold." 90% of children suffer from sunlight starvation, say the Gray skies, heavy winter clothing, explains.
